Infant boy left in church

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Cleveland police said today they do not plan to arrest a 24-year-old woman police say left her 6-month-old son in a church after she tried in vain to put the child into a foster home.

Policewoman Patricia Carr said the woman walked two miles Saturday, trying to turn the baby over to two social agencies and a church because they had no home, no food and no money.

The baby was in good health today, staying in a children's home where he was taken after he was discovered in the restroom.

"She said that she was so distraught—she had no food and no money, no refrigerator for milk," Mrs. Carr said. She said the woman moved from a downtown hotel the day before.

She said the woman told police she explained the situation to the agencies but that they urged her to keep the baby over the weekend and bring him back Monday.

Finally, she took the baby into St. John's Cathedral in downtown Cleveland and left the baby in the restroom, comfortably swathed in an open suitcase, Mrs. Carr said.

"As far as I'm concerned, she did make an attempt to place the child," Mrs. Carr said. "I told her that if she does go ahead as she plans this week and give the child up for adoption then, as of now, there would be no further action."

She said the woman has four other children, two in foster homes in Florida and two with relatives in New Jersey. The father of the child was in a Michigan jail, facing charges of carrying a concealed weapon, she said.

"She doesn't have a stitch of clothes for the baby," she added. "She's only got one change for herself."

Mrs. Carr said she knew trying to find foster home facilities in Cleveland was "a bad scene" on a weekend.

She said most of the social agencies do not have workers available on weekends and that even police cases require a good deal of trouble on weekends.

But "I just feel it's a bad system," she said. "I really wasn't aware before. I don't know what the answer is."

Mrs. Carr said she might have tried to talk the woman into keeping the child over the weekend, too.

"I can't say the problem would have been resolved if she'd just gone to a policeman," she said.

Apaches to renew claim

WASHINGTON (AP) — Descendants of the Apache warrior Geronimo plan to renew their legal battle with the government to collect damages for an alleged atrocity which decimated their tribe around the turn of the century.

The Indian Claims Commission already has awarded members of the Chiricahua Apache tribe more than $16 million in return for the seizure of their ancestral lands in Arizona, New Mexico and Mexico.

But the Chiricahuas are demanding millions more, claiming they were imprisoned by the government under inhumane conditions for 27 years.

Government documents show the Chiricahuas, mostly old men, women and children, were transported to internment camps in Florida, Alabama

Agnew's golfing less than great

PALMS SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, smiling and tanned, tried his hand at golf again this weekend, but ended up in the rough or the sand most of the time.

On the second hole Sunday, his ball wound up on another hole's tee.

There was one bright spot and Agnew was emphasizing it. He made a birdie on the Tamarisk Country Club's ninth hole.

"You should have seen me on the ninth hole," he said. "I hit a six iron about that far from the hole," indicating about a foot.

Agnew was enjoying the weekend here with entertainer Frank Sinatra.

Highway bill gets Nixon signature

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon signed a compromise $22.9 billion highway bill today, hailing it as a significant move to ease urban congestion by opening the Highway Trust Fund for mass transit improvements.

In a statement released as he signed the measure in a White House ceremony, Nixon said the legislation "reflects a spirit of constructive cooperation" between Congress and the administration.

The three-year bill authorizes $2.9 billion more than requested by Nixon, but is $5 billion below the spending level voted by the House.

Nixon complained, in his statement about the higher spending but added, "I am confident that the act can be properly administered so as to not violate my commitment to a non-inflationary budget."

The bill for the first time allows trust fund money to be used in the second year for bus purchases and in the third year for bus and rail capital investments.

Nixon called this a "landmark provision" and said it will give states and localities "the flexibility they need to set their own transportation priorities."

"The law will enable them at last to relieve congestion and pollution problems by developing more balanced

Youth asks mental test in murders

HOUSTON (AP) — With authorities continuing the search that has unearthed 23 bodies so far, one of the youths accused in some of the homosexual slayings here goes into court today to ask for a psychiatric examination.

Sheriffs from both Chambers and Galveston counties start digging again today along the Gulf of Mexico beach where two bodies were found Friday.

Elmer Wayne Henley, 17, faces his first court appearance. Police say Henley has admitted slaying nine of the young victims.

Also today, Houston Police Chief Herman Short is to hold a news conference to answer charges from parents that police should have discovered sooner the series of murders that stretched over a three-year period.

Henley has been charged with two counts of murder in the slayings and three counts of murder in San Augustine County in East Texas, where four bodies have been discovered.

Another Houston youth, David Owen Brooks, 18, has been charged with one count of murder. He says he witnessed some of the slayings but took no part in them.

The body count is just two short of that in California's Juan Corona mass murder case, the worst in the nation's history.

The search for bodies began Wednesday after Henley told police he had killed 33-year-old Dean Allen Corli, who according to the boys, was the instigator of the slayings.

Only five of the badly decomposed bodies found in Houston and the other two locations have been positively identified. Medical examiners worked over the weekend trying to identify the others.

Cox resumes tape quest

WASHINGTON (AP) — Watergate special prosecutor Archibald Cox filed a legal brief today arguing that President Nixon has "an enforceable legal duty not to withhold material evidence from a grand jury."

"Even the highest executive officials are subject to the rule of law, which it is emphatically the province and duty of the courts to declare," Cox argued in the latest round of the legal battle over and Oklahoma after being evicted from their homelands.

The Apaches originally filed suit against the government in 1949, asking for $7.5 million in damages—$14.3 million in today's dollars.

Lawyers for the government did not contest the facts, but in 1971 the Indian Claims Commission dismissed the suit on grounds it did not have jurisdiction over wrongs suffered by individuals—only those suffered by an entire tribe. The commission held it was "irrelevant that each and every member" of the tribe was imprisoned.

The ruling was upheld on appeal by the U.S. Court of Claims.

Nixon signed the bill after returning from Camp David, where he worked on a public response to the Watergate scandal.

Normal trip home seen for skylab

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Mission Control is becoming more confident that the Skylab 2 astronauts will be able to return to earth Sept. 25 in their own ferry ship and that a rescue flight won't be necessary.

Asked by newsmen Sunday if it now appeared the astronauts will make a normal trip home, flight director Charles Lewis said: "At this point, you're probably correct."

But as a precaution, a rescue rocket and another Apollo craft will be moved to a Cape Kennedy, Fla., launch pad Tuesday. The rocket could be launched Sept. 10 or later if needed.

Astronauts Alan L. Bean, Dr. Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma began the 17th day of their planned 59-day orbital journey, with commander Bean set to try out a jet-propelled back pack that looks like something out of Buck Rogers.

He was to flit about at a speed of about two feet a second in the high-ceiling second story of the house-size Skylab.

The back pack, called an astronaut maneuvering unit, or AMU, is being developed for possible use on later space missions when astronauts will transfer between spaceships or move around while making external repairs to orbital stations or unmanned satellites.

access to tape recordings and other presidential materials subpoenaed by Cox.

The special prosecutor filed his brief in U.S. District Court in response to the White House argument that the courts lack the authority to compel President Nixon to obey subpoenas.

"The subpoena was properly directed to the President and the court has power to enforce it," Cox said.

He called the White House argument that the President is immune from court orders "inconsistent with our entire constitutional tradition."

He argued that the grand jury under whose authority the subpoena was issued "is not seeking to control the President in the exercise of his constitutional powers, for, as we show, he has no constitutional power to withhold the evidence sought by the subpoena merely by his own declaration of the public interest."

"The grand jury is seeking evidence of criminal conduct that the respondent happens to have in his custody—largely by his personal choice."

Gene Fitzpatrick, county superintendent for the Ohio Department of Highways, said his men will be doing berm work along U.S. 35-E and on Ohio 729 south of Milledgeville.

If it doesn't rain, state highway workers will also install new drains along the newest segments off Ohio 753-S. State crews will operating six mowers, including the windrower mower on Ohio 743. Trash crews will also be active, and there are plans to clean along curbs on I-71 access ramps where grass has grown.

Grass on downtown sidewalks will be removed this week by city street workers, according to Bill Duncan, acting city street superintendent.

They'll also be clearing alleys and, if the weather allows, painting and patching.

Trucker dies on mountain

BASTIAN, Va. (AP)—An Ohio man was killed near here Sunday when the brakes of his tractor-trailer overheated, causing the vehicle to run off a mountain road, police said.

State police identified the man as Charles A. Gleason, 37, of Asthabula.

After the truck's brakes overheated, the transmission fell out and the trailer struck a tree, police said.

The brake castings the truck was hauling tumbled off the trailer and the rig overturned, pinning Gleason in the vehicle for about an hour.

The flying cargo also damaged three parked vehicles and crashed through the window of a nearby house.

No other injuries were reported.

TV service now available in Memorial Hospital

The Fayette Memorial Hospital Auxiliary today added the rental service of television sets to the several services they already have undertaken in the hospital, according to Robert L. Kunz, administrator.

The innovative system, called "SteriVision", is a unique, personalized approach to hospital patient TV entertainment which is being adopted by a growing number of the nation's leading hospitals.

Transistorized TV receivers with five-inch screens are now available on a rental basis to the patients. The receiver is attached to a versatile gravity-free, spring balanced arm which enables the patient to view television from virtually any position, according to his physical condition.

A major break-through in the ecology of patient environment within the hospital is the "silent" feature of the sets. Patients can use disposable, sterile earpieces to hear the audio portion of the programs, thus eliminating conflicts with neighboring patients who wish to sleep or rest, or who prefer to watch a different channel.

Functioning through a single coaxial cable installed within the walls of the hospital, the TV sets have no dangling wires or cords and operate on extremely low-voltage DC power, thus virtually eliminating the hazards of accidents and electrical shock. Twenty SteriVision sets use as little electrical power as one conventional household set. When viewed at a normal reading distance, the five-inch screen is equal in size and in clarity to large-screen sets that must be viewed from across the room. These sets have been modified so that they will function only with the type of wiring that has been installed in the hospital.

The profit from the rental program, to be handled by the Fayette County Memorial Hospital Women's Auxiliary, will be returned to the hospital in the form of additional needed equipment or improvements, according to Ralph Child, Auxiliary president. It is the policy that payment of the rental for the TV sets must be made in advance. The rental cost is $1.75 per day plus tax. If friends of patients wish to rent TV's for patients, gift certificates are available in the hospital gift shop.

Amtrak making progress

The Amtrak effort to revitalize rail passenger service is rolling, but by no means at top speed. There is reason to think it could get up a full head of steam if only the railroads which run the trains under contract to the quasi-public corporation would do their part.

Enough progress has been made to give the lie to the railroads' claim over the years that Americans are no longer interested in riding on trains. About 15 million passengers were carried in the year Amtrak was established, 1971. By last year the figure had risen to 16.4 million, and the 1973 total is expected to exceed 18 million.

Though trains still account for only a small fraction of the people-transportation business, this is a significant rate of increase.

It does not follow that Amtrak has yet reached the break-even point, or come anywhere near it. Losses are still at high levels, making necessary a continued government subsidy. That lends support to the railroads' other persistent contention, that intercity passenger trains simply are not going to operate in the black.

There is still hope that this happy state of affairs could be achieved, though, if service were good enough to attract passengers in great numbers. At present, this is decidedly not the case.

The situation is cogently summed up in this paragraph from a New York Times report: "In many cases, Amtrak executives claim, the railroads are casual about meeting schedules, carry human cargo begrudgingly, and stick to the letter of their contracts so tightly that many efforts to innovate and upgrade service are thwarted. On-time performance for all 13 lines has grown progressively worse."

A major contributing factor is the present rule whereby the railroads get the same fee regardless of the quality of service they offer. Amtrak seeks to have this changed, so that there would be incentive payments for exceptional service and penalties for sub-standard service. This sensible plan would do much to build up a better head of steam in the task of restoring rail passenger service as a vigorous part of our transportation system.

Questions for a blue-ribbon panel

When Sen. Edward Kennedy proposed that a panel of scientists be set up to advise Congress on the probable social effects of the exploitation of new inventions, discoveries and technological change, I could see only a negativist result.

In our present Naderized atmosphere the scientists recommended for the Kennedy committee would be long on delay. A new penicillin would take a decade to reach the market; a new wrinkle in energy adaptation would be talked into next-to-permanent postponement. Meanwhile other countries would be getting the jump on us all over the place.

Arnold Saltzman, head of the Seagrave Corp., who has been mentioned as possible Democratic contestant for Jacob Javits' senatorial seat, has a better idea for an advisory committee. His suggestion is that the U.S. Senate, which certainly contains its percentage of economic illiterates who need counseling, set up a blue-ribbon committee of savvy individuals (presumably the group would include industrialists, bankers and think-tank personnel as well as economists) to anticipate the probable terminal effects of current policies.

The value of Mr. Saltzman's idea would depend, of course, on the political disinterestedness of the blue-ribbon panelists. We would need a half-dozen Bernard Baruchs, supplemented by a few Herman Kahns, to carry out an objective job.

MR. SALTZMAN has his own list of the problems that a good committee might have helped us to solve in the immediate past. Let me present some of his questions in guest-column fashion:

1. Was it unforeseen that the rate and duration of our inflationary trend were increasingly dangerous to our economic security, both at home and abroad?
2. Was it unknown that the war in Vietnam was the only protracted military involvement by the U.S. without economic controls since the Civil War — and when controls were brought in, but at a late date, they were totally inadequate?
3. Was it not clear that our unfavorable balance of payments year after year threatened the world's two monetary bedrock foundations, the gold standard and the American dollar?
4. Was it not observed that we were using energy year after year at a rate faster than we were replacing it while at the same time losing economic sway over large foreign production? Was it not equally clear that we have at home...billions of tons of high grade coal, and enormously wasteful standards of usage, which, adequately controlled, could erase our energy shortage?
5. Is it a mystery that in a world fearfully short of grain and soybeans that first we should protect our own needs) and, second, that we should be adequately compensated for our surpluses?

6. How long have we known that our transportation systems were broken down and could be saved only by regional accommodation?
7. HOW LONG should we continue to use interest rates as the primary mechanism to turn on or off what needs to be created or abated — and at what cost and to whom?
8. What kind of justification either in economics or morality is there in fostering unemployment as a device to halt inflation?
9. How many more years do we ignore the wastage of our rural productive areas and the blight of our cities?
10. How long do we have to keep alternating between crisis and complacency, while being profligate of our resources at both ends of the economic spectrum? Long enough until it is too late to reverse the process taking us down from the foremost to an "also ran" among the world's industrial powers?

Mr. Saltzman's list is surely comprehensive. I am not as trustful as he is that a disinterested committee of experts can be found to offer the senators non-partisan answers to questions that involve the passions of interest-groups, nor do I have his hopes that the Senate, as presently constituted, would have the brains to accept good advice.

But something has to be done to reverse a lot of contemporary trends or its is going to be lights out for America as we have known it.

WASHINGTON CALLING . . . by Marquis Childs

Foreign relations must go on

WASHINGTON — As one appalling scandal after another sees the light of day, an indisputable fact of life is paramount. The President of the United States is still the President of the United States, and short of some unforeseen accident is likely to remain so for three more years.

He is responsible for the conduct of foreign policy and this, above all else, points up the peril of the present moment. It would be convenient to say to the world, "Look, sorry but we're having a family fight over here, so just hold up everything for a few months."

Given America's power and the responsibility going with it, that is not possible.

The heads of state who have been here this summer and those still to come want to believe President Nixon's authority has not been seriously eroded. Pressed by eager reporters, they are unwilling to say it is a handicap to negotiate with a crippled executive.

AS THE VISIT of Japan's Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka made plain, events will not stand still until we resolve the scandalousness summarized in the shorthand of Watergate. Tanaka pointed out to his hosts that Japan is dependent for 90 per cent of soybean imports, a vital commodity, from the United States.

But putting an embargo on exports of soybeans the Administration dealt still another Nixon shock to a nation second only to Canada as a trading partner.

The Tanaka government gets high marks for a determined effort to correct the trade imbalance. At a faster rate than had been expected, within the current year, the position of the United States will have been greatly improved.

Japanese laws have been altered to allow increased American investment in Japanese industry. At the same time the Japanese are using part of their great involuntary hoard of dollars to buy properties in Hawaii and California.

While this has caused some resentment, it is just what America's multinational firms have been doing all around the world.

LIKE SIAMESE TWINS, as the issue of Japanese trade illustrates, foreign and domestic policy cannot be severed. The Administration is under heavy pressure to put up tariff barriers against, in the propaganda of the trade union movement, low-cost foreign competition.

To yield to that pressure, which is certain to grow, would be a body blow not only to Japan but to America's other trading partners, with the likelihood of a disastrous trade war as other nations follow suit.

Another recent visitor, the Shah of Iran, wants to sign more flow-through oil agreements with American companies, insuring an increased energy resource to the benefit of both countries. This has Administration blessing.

The agreements signed by President Nixon and Communist Party Secretary Leonid Brezhnev in June turn on trade. If the Soviet Union is denied the same status that America's other trading partners have, with the success of a powerful bloc in Congress, Brezhnev will be in a lonely and perhaps even an isolated position in the Moscow power apparatus.

ALL THIS is merely to say that, short of a total retreat, the conduct of policy cannot be chopped off at the water's edge. The concern over Watergate and the authority of the executive is global. No one is more acutely aware of this as he plans his coming trip to Peking than is Henry A. Kissinger, the President's adviser on national security.

Both symbol of continuity and stability with the United States and close liaison with Premier Chou En-lai, Kissinger has postponed his visit until after Aug. 15 when the bombing of Cambodia will stop. He will sit down again with Chou for the kind of session marking each of his previous visits.

These two men, so dissimilar in background, will cover as they have before every aspect of world policy and, one may be sure, the realities of Washington in the Watergate era.

It was a reflection of the President's conspiratorial temperament that he dragged into his toast to Tanaka at the state dinner a slur on those who were "dealing with the murky, small, unimportant vicious little things." This was hardly the way to rebuild confidence and trust across the chasm between the Capitol and the White House.

Congress established the Federal Reserve System on December 23, 1913.

Hal Boyle . . . Record business no breeze

NEW YORK (AP) — Larry Uttal flopped in doughnuts. He flopped in the retail clothing field. He flopped as a songwriter. He flopped a couple of times as a music publisher.

But now, at 51, Larry Uttal has made a fortune as one of America's top record executives.

"You learn more from your failures than you do from success," said Uttal, the bearded, unconventional president of Bell Records, one of the top companies in the business. Recently his firm had the No. 1, No. 2 and No. 3 top hit singles on the sales charts, a feat unprecedented in the industry.

His firm over a two-year period has become a leading producer in Great Britain and turned out 20 gold records, each of which has sold more than a million discs.

"But you can lose money, even on a hit record, if you spend too much for the talent or promotion," said Uttal. "The things that count in this business are continuity and followup."

"You don't have time to enjoy the luxury of a hit record. It may gross $400,000 for the manufacturer, but he may net only five per cent of that. Its life as a heavy seller usually lasts only about six weeks. At the end of from three to six months it is dead — and there is nothing deader than a dead hit record. If you aren't ready then to follow it up with another hit, you'll probably be dead soon, too."

Part of Uttal's success is attributed to his skill in handling artists and discovering new talent.

The Bell stable includes such stars as the Partridge Family, the Fifth Dimension, David Cassidy, Dawn, Edison Lighthouse, Vickie Lawrence, a featured performer on the Carol Burnett television show, and young Gary Glitter, who has been hailed as "The Elvis Presley of Great Britain." Bell also turned out the original cast album of the musical "Godspell," which won the industry's Grammy Award.

Larry, who studied statistics in college, became a captain in the medical corps during World War II. He said he turned to pop music chiefly to escape the ordeal of "12 hateful years of playing classical music" as a child.

He learned from his two children to appreciate rock music, of which he is now an expert judge.

Dear Abby:

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Phil and I were married for two years, and I thought we had a great marriage. He was 23 and I was 25.

Then Phil went back to college full time while I worked and paid the bills. (I'm a surgical nurse.) It was working out fine until Phil became more than casually involved with a female classmate, and in a sequence of events they were both kicked out of school. (He had stolen a test and they were both caught in possession of it.)

Phil then transferred to another school. The girl also transferred with him. By the way, she's 21, divorced, and has a child.

I demanded a showdown and Phil said he "loved" us both and couldn't decide between her or me.

My pride was hurt, so I locked him out, and now, of course, he is seeing her.

I still love him and regret locking him out. I don't want to lose him, but I couldn't take his running from her to me.

Please tell me how to get him back.

SORRY

DEAR SORRY: You could swallow what's left of your pride and ask Phil to reconsider, but after locking him out, I'd say you blew it.

DEAR ABBY: I am a working girl 19, and I live at home. I have several younger brothers and sisters, and it is really sad to find that someone in your own family steals. That is my problem, and I don't know which one it is.

I have hidden my purse in my bowling bag, underneath my clothes in drawers, and even far back in my closet, but someone always finds it and helps themselves to some money. I have missed 5s, 10s, and even $20 bills. (They never take it all.)

How can I find out who is guilty?

DISGUSTED

DEAR DISGUSTED: I know of no "traps" you can set, although I'm sure there are many. Why don't you put a lock on a drawer (or closet) and wear the key around your neck on a chain?

DEAR ABBY: I get so riled up when I read those pathetic letters signed, "Neglected Mother," or "Forgotten Father." They are from old folks who are not wanted by their children. Abby, I wonder if they have ever stopped to ask themselves why?

One day, many years ago, I came home from work and found my four children watching TV. When I poked my head into the room, they didn't even say hello. I was hurt and angry. Then I said to myself: "You fool! If you can't make yourself more interesting than that damned TV set, it's your own fault."

I admit, I used a bit of bribery in the form of peppermint candy and a few minor toys, but within a few days when I entered the house, there were hoots and hollers: "Daddy's home!"

Old people should consider that their loneliness could be caused by themselves. Many are excused for being difficult because of their age. Why? No one has a right to be difficult whether he be young or old. Old age doesn't give one the license to complain all the time (we all have troubles), to talk the time and reminisce too much (other people like to talk about themselves, too), or to expect constant attention.

Old people should make an effort to be good company. They should also have a hobby, so they can enjoy being alone.

I am 60 years of age, and if I grow old and nobody comes to see me, I hope I am wise enough to realize it's 99 per cent my own fault.

CHARLIE IN ROME

DEAR CHARLIE: Loneliness for you? I'll bet against it.

CONFIDENTIAL TO WORKING GIRL IN OMAHA: If you are one of the "working girls" heaven is supposed to protect, heaven help the poor fellow for whom you are working.

Msgr. Francis J. Schwendeman performed the ceremony uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Brown of London, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Miles Chester of Jeffersonville.

Mrs. Dee Latto, organist, presented a half-hour of pre-nuptial music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a gown of dotted Swiss with heart-shaped lace around the neckline. The same lace edged the deep cuffs of dotted Swiss of illusion which were capped by dotted Swiss and the empire waistline were accented with matching lace. Her only jewelry was a strand of pearls.

A cap of lace flowers enhanced with miniature pearls held her elbow length veil. She carried a nosegay of white daisies and yellow, pink and white carnations with broad leaved greenery and baby's breath.

Miss Kathy Bown was her sister's only attendant. She wore an empire gown of violet blue lawn embossed with white cotton rectangles. The deep neckline was edged with a white bertha collar and white cuffs held short puffed sleeves. Tatting trimmed the collar and cuffs and the waistline was outlined by bands of the violet blue lawn. She carried a nosegay styled as the bride's with blue accents.

Mrs. Brown wore a streetlength dress with navy skirt and white bodice in shirtwaist styling for her daughter's wedding. Her accessories were navy and her corsage of white daisies.

The groom's mother wore a dress of sunshine yellow with rounded turnback collar and A-line skirt. Her accessories were white and she wore a white daisy corsage.

Hostesses at the Coover Club House at a reception honoring the couple following the wedding were Jerry Harding and Midge DeWitt. Guests were served cake, a three-tiered cake decorated by frosting flowers in summer garden shades. Yellow candles in silver holders were surrounded by summer flowers and an arrangement of variegated flowers graced the table. Miss Vicki Brown, the bride's sister, was at the guest registry.

Potato salad summer staple

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN
WHO SAYS a salad has to be cold? It can be hot stuff. Today's salad recipes are in this category. They're also budget-wise additions to hot weather menus.

If you think potato salad is good cold, try this hot version. It's sure to become a family favorite.

TOASTED CHEESE POTATO SALAD

2 3/4 pounds potatoes (about 8 medium)
1 1/4 cups real mayonnaise
1/2 cup vinegar
1/4 cup water
1 teaspoon sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1-3 cup chopped onion
1/4 teaspoon tarragon
3 hard cooked eggs, chopped
1 cup chopped celery
1/4 cup chopped parsley
1/4 cup finely shredded cheddar cheese.

Cook potatoes in boiling water until tender.

Meanwhile, blend 3/4 cup real mayonnaise, vinegar, water, sugar and salt; mix in onion and tarragon.

Pare and slice the cooked potatoes. Toss with mayonnaise mixture while still warm. Chill.

Line a (9 x 5 x 3-inch) loaf pan with waxed paper. Lightly mix chilled potato mixture, chopped eggs, celery and parsley. Pack into prepared pan. Chill. Unmold salad onto flame-proof serving platter.

Mix remaining 1/2 cup real mayonnaise with cheese. Spread over top of salad. Broil about 4 inches from source of heat until topping bubbles and browns, about 5 minutes.

Makes 9 servings.

STRAWBERRY VANILLA FREEZE

3/4 cup sugar
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 and one-third cups instant nonfat dry milk solids
3 3/4 cups cold water
2 eggs, lightly beaten
1 pint fresh strawberries, finely chopped (about 2 cups)
1 1/2 tablespoons pure vanilla extract
Red food coloring, if desired

In a medium saucepan thoroughly stir together the sugar, gelatin, cornstarch and salt. Blend dry milk with water; blend into sugar mixture. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture comes to the boiling point and thickens slightly; cool for 1 minute.

Blend a little of this hot mixture into beaten eggs; stir the egg mixture back into the hot mixture remaining in the saucepan. Cook and stir over very low heat for about 5 minutes or until mixture coats the back of a silver spoon — do not overcook. Let mixture cool for 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Stir in strawberries and vanilla. Pour into 2 freezer trays without ice-cube dividers; freeze until mixture is frozen 1-inch from edge. Turn into the large bowl of an electric mixer and beat until smooth — about 2 minutes. If food coloring is used, blend it in. Return to freezer trays. Freeze until firm. Allow to soften slightly at room temperature before serving. Makes 1 1/2 quarts — 106 calories per 1/2 cup portion.

Urbana church roof collapses

URBANA, Ohio (AP) — Authorities here say the collapse of the roof of the Jerusalem Baptist Church Sunday resulted in no injuries. The Rev. Samuel Scott of Springfield said he was just opening the door of the church when the roof of the 110-year-old structure caved in. Firemen later removed the remaining portions of the building.

Lima blaze investigation continues

LIMA, Ohio (AP) — Fire officials today were continuing an investigation into the cause of a fire at a lumber store-home in which five persons died early Saturday.

Charles Kissel, chief of the Bath Township Fire Department in Northeastern Allen County, said neither the cause of the blaze nor a damage estimate was available.

The fire claimed the life of a mother and her six-month-old son, and three other children.

The blaze was reported at 3:09 a.m. Saturday. Witnesses said flames shot as high as 100 feet into the sky and could be seen for miles. Firefighters said they heard exploding paint and plastics inside the lumber store.

Firemen brought the fire under control after a battle that lasted for 1½ hours.

The bodies of three of the victims were found on the lower level of the structure. Fire officials speculate that they fell through the upper floor.

Eugene Fultz, 45, the owner of the lumber store, escaped the flames by crashing through a picture window to safety. He was treated for cuts and bruises.

Fultz's mother suffered severe smoke inhalation and was admitted to a local hospital.

Two of Fultz's teenage children were treated and released at the hospital.

See gasoline shutdowns

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — R. S. Ryan, a senior vice president of Columbia Gas of Ohio, has predicted that the company's freeze on new sales of natural gas will continue.

Ryan said it is unlikely that the sales restrictions the gas company has imposed on new customers will be lifted in the near future.

Columbia Gas restricted natural gas supplies to large volume industrial users last winter. The restrictions were lifted earlier than anticipated when the winter proved to be unusually warm. However, the company continued to limit new sales.

Ryan said company projections indicate gas will be available for residential and commercial customers this winter.

The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio, in the meantime, was to begin hearings today on the priorities of fuel allocation in the event of natural gas shortages.

Priorities set in the past range from top ranking residential heating to large volume industry at the lowest rating. The hearings will permit companies to argue for or against the proposed priorities.

Prep grid teams launch workouts

Season debuts just over 3 weeks away

By MIKE FLYNN
Record-Herald Sports Editor

It's time again for Fayette County's high school football teams to open their pre-season training camps in earnest this week.

The prospective football candidates reported at both Washington C.H. and Miami Trace high schools today to begin preparations for the 1973 campaigns.

THE GRIDDERS will pull on the practice jerseys and pads this week to open a pre-season practice period of almost three and a half weeks before the 1973 inaugurations Sept. 7.

Conditioning programs have been going on since mid-July and in some cases earlier, all on a voluntary basis. Both the Blue Lions and Panthers have been working cut with helmets and shoes since the first of the month, with the emphasis on physical conditioning. Running and weightlifting have occupied the players' time for at least the last two weeks.

In addition to the running, many of the prospective gridders have taken part in summer weightlifting and physical fitness programs at both Fayette County high schools.

When the drills get under way each team must confine the first four days of workouts to conditioning. No contact will be allowed until after the fourth day, as per order by the Ohio High School Association with the advice from the Advisory Committee on Sports Medicine of the Ohio State Medical Association.

Morning and afternoon sessions have been scheduled for the Fayette County gridders this week.

Dressler sees stardom this season

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Bengals running back Doug Dressler says this is the year he emerges from the shadows into stardom. He has a 1,000 reasons why.

"I'm shooting for 1,000 yards. The major brunt of the load will fall on me and my average is good enough to do," said the 230-pound Californian, who sometimes wears a lapel button engraved with "Blitz Me" to practice.

"That's to tease the linebackers," said the soft-spoken 25-year-old Dressler, who had his best season last year with 565 yards, although he didn't earn a starting spot until midseason.

His goal is a lofty one, but Dressler has reason to believe anything can happen.

Signed as a free agent in 1970 when he tried out with the Bengals as a tight end, Dressler didn't go out for high school football until his senior year.

"I had no position. The coach just said 'go on in' when it was 30 or 40 or nothing. I remember the first time I played the other team ran a play right over me for a touchdown. I was a kicker after that," he said.

He played college ball at Chico (Calif.) State but didn't attract any attention, he said.

"I didn't give myself much of a chance when I came here. But I had to try it. I couldn't live with a question mark the rest of my life wondering if I could have made it or not."

"I came here during the player's strike in 1970. It gave me three weeks to get even with the other backs, after being a tight end for years," he recalled.

Now heading into his fourth season, he feels confident he's ready for a big season.

Jeff Merchants win tournament

The Jeffersonville Merchants slo-pitch softball team emerged with top honors in the Park and Safe tournament at Germantown over the weekend by posting an unblemished 5-0 record.

Flea Merriman cracked 13 hits for a .650 average and Sid Woodrow had a .777 mark. Pete Robinson batted .583 followed by Jack Merriman (.529) and Randy Merriman (.500). The Jeff team had 52 runs and 83 hits.

Anderson triggers Bengals

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Bengals quarterback Ken Anderson thinks he made his point Saturday night.

"I just wanted to show Cincinnati fans I'm the No. 1 quarterback all the way this year," said the 23-year-old Anderson after leading the Bengals to a 24-0 first half lead with a near-flawless aerial exhibition against the Philadelphia Eagles.

Cincinnati set a preseason scoring record with a 45-21 National Football League exhibition victory over the Eagles.

Anderson hit 11 of 12 passes for 143 yards and two touchdowns to produce Cincinnati's first win after dropping a 14-13 decision to Miami.

"It was just one of those nights when everything went right," said Anderson. "But you have to do that every night. Hopefully we will get that consistency down."

Coach Paul Brown was pleased with Anderson's showing. "He's growing up," he said.

Eagles' Coach Mike McCormack had a different view of the outcome. "I thought we looked like a high school team. I was very disappointed," he said.

"The important thing to us is that we found things that are going to help us," said McCormack, who was facing his ex-coach for the first time.

McCormack must have liked what he saw from second-year quarterback John Reaves, who had a sensational second half. The Eagles No. 1 draft choice of 1972 completed 14 of 29 for 237 yards.

Reaves took over for veteran Roman Gabriel in the second half and immediately triggered life into the offense. His first pass was 45-yard completion to Harold Carmichael that put the Eagles on the Bengals' 11-yard line.

Running back Lee Bouggess scored from the seven, his first of two touchdowns.

Reaves added a series of 37 and 22 yards late in the third quarter to set up a three-yard touchdown run by Bouggess.

At Washington C.H., veteran head coach Maurice Pfeifer will be hoping to better last year's 6-4 production as he enters his ninth consecutive term as the Blue Lion taskmaster.

PFEIFER is hoping to capitalize on the experience of a large group of seniors blended with that of several juniors.

At Miami Trace, new head coach Fred Zechman will be handling the chores. Zechman, formerly of Youngstown, had been head football coach at Western Reserve High School in Berlin Center and becomes the fourth new head football coach in the South Central Ohio League this autumn.

Both teams will work about a week and a half before plunging into pre-season interscholastic scrimmage action. Each team is allowed three scrimmages starting on Aug. 25 and going through Sept. 1.

Season openers are scheduled Sept. 7 when Washington C.H. entertains Columbus Bishop Ready and Miami Trace hosts Springfield Northeastern.

Consistent Shaffer captures club title

Gary Shaffer weathered some pretty heavy pressure from two young challengers to capture the 50th Washington County Club golf championship Sunday afternoon.

It was the second club championship in three years for Shaffer, who is Washington C.H.'s head basketball and head coach golf.

SHAFFER repeated his 1971 title performance by swatting a sizzling six-over-par 150 to top a field of four golfers, including defending champion Rob Herron. Shaffer finished third in last year's championship tournament.

While Shaffer was turning in identical rounds of 75 in the 36-hole medal play, Herron, an Ashland College golfer, finished six strokes off the pace with a 156 total.

On the first 18-hole match, Shaffer turned in a glittering par 36 round and finished with a three-over par 75. In the final 18 holes of play, Shaffer turned in rounds of 38 and 37 for the 150 total.

Herron had scores of 37 and 42 on the first 18 holes to fall four strokes off Shaffer's pace and turned in a 38 and 39 on the last 18 holes.

Bill Junk, a classmate of Herron's at Washington Senior High School and now a student at Ohio Wesleyan University, placed third in this year's club championship. Junk was only one poke off Herron's pace as he finished with a fine 157 score. Junk had rounds of 43-38-81 and 36-40-76 to land the third place berth.

Jim Hanawalt was the other member of the championship quartet and he turned in a 168 total. Hanawalt had rounds of 39-42-87.

Murphy wins at motocross

Tim Murphy, of the Honda Sports Center in Washington C.H., was one of seven winners in the motocross races held at the Fruitdale Sportsmen Association's track Saturday.

Murphy placed first in the 250 cc class and Tim Warner, also of Washington C.H., fared well by finishing fourth in the 125cc class.

More than 50 motorcycles participated in the seven AMA-sanctioned classes, according to race manager Dave Hatfield, of Greenfield. A crowd of nearly 700 persons was on hand.

Anderson triggers Bengals

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Bengals quarterback Ken Anderson thinks he made his point Saturday night.

"I just wanted to show Cincinnati fans I'm the No. 1 quarterback all the way this year," said the 23-year-old Anderson after leading the Bengals to a 24-0 first half lead with a near-flawless aerial exhibition against the Philadelphia Eagles.

Cincinnati set a preseason scoring record with a 45-21 National Football League exhibition victory over the Eagles.

Anderson hit 11 of 12 passes for 143 yards and two touchdowns to produce Cincinnati's first win after dropping a 14-13 decision to Miami.

Rose says

LA chasing Reds

ST. LOUIS (AP) — "We're the only team in baseball that's in second place and being chased by the leader," the Cincinnati Reds' Pete Rose remarked.

The hot-hitting Rose, the "Charlie Hustle" of the National League, kept his team in that role Sunday with two doubles and as many RBIs. While Rose was running his hitting streak to 14 games, the game's "Big Red Machine" extended its win streak to five with a 7-2 triumph over the St. Louis Cardinals.

The victory, Cincinnati's 33rd in 43 games since July 1, kept the club 1½ games behind the Los Angeles Dodgers, whom it once trailed by 11 games in the NL's West Division.

"I think we can explode right on by," opined Rose, who maintained his league-leading batting average at .345 as the Reds swept a three-game bill.

"The reason I say that is because we've got the right guys swinging the bats right now," he added. "Joe Morgan and I are going to get on base. The secret to our team is the guts of the batting order. If those guys produce, we're hard to beat."

Rose had two hits and Morgan drew two walks as the Reds capped a shellacking of St. Louis pitching with five runs on four hits and three bases on balls in the second inning.

Behind the two was rookie Dan Driessen with a single, walk, two runs and two RBIs.

Tony Perez followed with two singles, a walk and a run driven in, and Johnny Bench made the most of one hit with the other two RBIs.

Bobby Tolan contributed a double and Cesar Geronimo and Ed Crosby walked before Rose fused the big inning with his second two-base hit.

"I think it's all momentum," suggested Rose, who with his team moves into Pittsburgh for a three-game series against the Pirates opening tonight.

"We might lose three in a row to Pittsburgh and L. A. might beat Montreal that many in a row," he added of a series opening on the West Coast, "and then the momentum's the other way."

Cincinnati's record since the All-star break is a sizzling 15-5.

"We've got five games left with Los Angeles in September, and I'm sure those will decide the division race," observed Reds Manager Sparky Anderson.

Nicklaus wins PGA; tops 13-win record

CLEVELAND (AP) — No matter what his rivals say, Jack Nicklaus remains unconvinced he's golf's greatest player ever.

"I don't know if Bobby Jones is better or I am," said the game's No. 1 superstar Sunday, even though he had just shattered Jones' revered 43-year-old major title record of 13 victories.

"I do know he achieved his in shorter time," said the awesome Golden Bear, whose final round charge to a three-underpar 69 gave him a 277 total and a bulging four-shot decision over runner-up Bruce Crampton.

"At 33, I know I'm going to play a long time," Nicklaus added, "and the only way to compare is when you're through."

"The only measuring stick today is major titles. You can't compare stroke averages. The courses are so different," he said.

Nicklaus' powering game crumbled his Canterbury Golf Club opponents and brought these testimonials:

Crampton—"It was a pleasure to be an eyewitness to history being made. He borders on the unbelievable. Here's a man in his early 30s who could do this so early and with such ease."

Tom Weiskopf—"Jack's the greatest player who ever played the game. There isn't a shot he can't make. He's the greatest ever because the caliber of play is so much better now. It's tougher to win."

Consider these accomplishments for a man just reaching pro golf's prime age:

—Four Masters, three PGA, three U.S. Open, two British Open, two U.S. Amateur.

—12 major pro championships, one more than Walter Hagen's previous record.

—Just over $50,000 short of $2 million in official tour earnings since 1962.

—49 official tour victories, not counting his two British Opens.

—Five victories in 15 tour appearances this year including 13 times in the top ten.

—$245,424 in 1973 earnings, second to Crampton's $270,841, with the $45,000 first prize check.

Nicklaus arrived at the 6,852-yard course without a victory in his last five tournaments.

"I'll have to change that," he said on the eve of this, the last of the major tournaments for 1973.

He did, with a concentration seldom attained by his modern day rivals.

Crampton finished at 281 with a final 70.

Mason Rudolph, one stroke behind Nicklaus with upstart Don Iverson through 54 holes, struggled to a 73. He holes and had a 42 on the final nine to finish with an 82 score, which was two strokes better than Roger Grimm's 84 total and four strokes better than Everett Rudolph's 86 score. Grimm turned in rounds of 43 and 41, while Rudolph shot a 44 and a 42. Jack Marti, the fourth member of the first flight foursome, did not play in Sunday's finale.

The Washington Country Club's second flight championship was captured by Ben Wright, who turned in an 87 total score to top a field of three other players.

WRIGHT had rounds of 43 and 44 to win the tourney ahead of Chester Brown who placed second four strokes off the pace. Brown had rounds of 47 and 44 for a 91 total.

Others in the second flight championship tournament were Ralph Tate (50-48-98) and Ernie Stanforth (50-52-102).

Club pro Tony Capuana said the annual senior men's championship tournament will be held Sunday.

Columbus Ave., Wash. C. H., O.

"I'll say this," Anderson added, "we're going to make it a race. They're first in pitching and in hitting. I'd just like to be in a position where we have to win only two of those five games to finish on top."

Dodgers 2, Phillies 1

The Dodgers came from behind to beat Steve Carlton and the Phillies 2-1.

Greg Luzinski's 19th homer accounted for the game's only run until the eighth inning. Then, rookie catcher Joe Ferguson tagged a pinch homer, tying the score for Los Angeles.

In the ninth, the Dodgers pushed across the deciding run on consecutive singles by rookies Tom Paciorek, Steve Yeager and Dave Lopes.

Giants 4, Mets 1

Tito Fuentes knocked in all of San Francisco's runs with a three-run homer and a double, leading the Giants 4-1 victory over the New York Mets.

Ron Bryant throttled New York on six hits and started the Giants winning rally when he walked with two out in the fifth inning. John Milner misjudged Garry Maddox' fly ball and it fell for a double. Then Fuentes followed with a homer.

Astros 3, Cubs 2

Stumbling Chicago dropped its eighth straight with Jimmy Wynn scoring Houston's winning run in the eighth inning of a 3-2 victory.

Wynn walked in the eighth, raced to third on Cesar Cedeño's single and scored on an infield out.

Opening lead - king of hearts.
This deal occurred in the playoff between my team and the Curt Smith team to determine which of us would represent the United States in the 1973 world championship. My team won the match handily but not before we were badly clawed on this hand.

Maybe I shouldn't have doubled five spades with the West hand, though at the time it seemed the right thing to do. I led the king of hearts, which was ruffed, and later scored the ace of clubs and ace of diamonds, but that was the end of the party. Declarer made five spades doubled for 850 points and I was left holding the bag a sadder, it not wiser, man.

This was a bitter pill to swallow, but matters got much worse when I heard what had happened at the other table. My teammates this time held the North-South cards and the bidding went in this odd fashion:

South	West	North	East
Pass	1♥	2♣	2♠ (!)
Pass	3♦	4♠	4♥
Pass	4♠	Pass	5♥
Dble

Curt Smith, East, was the scoundrel who inserted the two-spade bid that stumped my beleaguered teammates. It is difficult to blame South for doubling five hearts, but declarer, West, wrapped up that contract without any trouble. His only losers were a spade and a trump.

So the upshot of the affair was that the Curt Smith team made five spades doubled at one table with the North-South cards, and also made five hearts doubled at the other table with the East-West cards. The hand cost my team 1,700 points.

Speaking of Your Health...

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Irritated About Insurance

I am really irritated with my doctor. Six weeks ago my gall bladder was removed.

I have been home for more than a month and I can't get my surgeon to fill out my insurance form.

Isn't he obligated to do this before I pay him?

Mr. J.S., III.

Dear Mr. S.:

No, he is not so obligated. Let us trace the relationship between you and your surgeon and see if we can find the underlying reason for your irritation.

At your first meeting, your doctor examined you, saw the X-rays, and called on his broad experience to determine your need for surgery. He then spent a considerable amount of time in the midst of his busy office hours to answer all your questions and allay the anxiety of you and your family.

After you left his office, he wrote a report to your family doctor indicating his diagnosis and his proposed plans for surgery.

Then he called the hospital and made specific arrangements for your admission to the type of room you chose, and for a date that was mutually agreeable, depending on the urgency of your case.

Special pre-admission forms were sent to your signature.

On the day you were admitted to the hospital, your surgeon and family physician carefully laid out the preliminary tests that would have to be done before the operation. This was to insure maximum safety.

Thoughtful planning with the anesthesiologist further added to your safety and eventual comfort.

About two hours of time was invested in the highly technical surgical procedure for the removal of your gall bladder.

Your surgeon then dictated a full hospital report of the operation, his findings and any complexities that existed.

For the next week or ten days your surgeon visited you twice a day, dressed your wound, gave comfort and understanding, and left daily instructions for drugs, diet, and special regimens for your individual case.

If an unusual problem arose, he was quickly called, even in the middle of the night if necessary.

You then were discharged from the hospital, having safely recovered from an intricate gall bladder operation.

You were then examined at the doctor's office until the wound was completely healed and you were finally told that you could ease into your normal routines.

Now there is a general feeling of happiness. Your gratitude to your doctor is limitless.

Then your doctor submitted his bill "for services rendered."

You, as many patients do, responded

by sending a blank insurance form as your total responsibility and compensation for the time, the skill, the effort and the energy that your surgeon invested in your destiny.

Now, you impose on him the need to collect his fee from a strange insurance company rather than from you, his patient.

Hundreds of forms pile up in this manner and deprive doctors and their staffs of time that must be devoted to the ongoing practice of medicine and surgery.

Do you still think that you have a right to be irritated?

Geographer would streamline 50 states into 38; balance size

LOS ANGELES (AP) — When geographer G. Etzel Percy talks about a union of 38 states, he is speaking about the future, not the past. Percy, formerly the State Department's top geographer and now a professor at the California State University in Los Angeles, thinks his plan to revamp the map of the United States would save taxpayers $4.6 billion a year in administrative costs.

And the plan to eliminate 18th and 19th century boundaries that Percy considers obsolete would streamline the 50 states into 38, balanced in population and size.

New boundaries would pass through sparsely populated areas, eliminating the problems plaguing cities that straddle state lines.

And the new states would be given new names to reflect their physical or cultural attributes.

Cascade, the name of the major mountain range that dominates the area, would apply to the entire Pacific Northwest.

The reorganization also would create the State of Ozark, comprising parts of Arkansas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri, Tennessee, Kentucky and Mississippi.

The professor insists his proposal is practical but doubts it ever will become a reality.

For one thing, politicians who would lose their jobs would stand in its way, he said. But there is another reason, too.

He added: "So tightly woven around us is the concept of statehood that we tend to regard it as sacrosanct."

The states Percy would create and what they would comprise are:

—Kennebec: Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont and northeastern New York.

—Mohawk: central and northwestern New York and a stretch of northern Pennsylvania.

—Plymouth: the coastal strip from New Hampshire to Connecticut.

—Hudson: southern New York, northeastern Pennsylvania and the western portions of Massachusetts and Connecticut.

—Susquehanna: central and southeastern Pennsylvania.

—Chesapeake: Delaware, Maryland, a part of southern Pennsylvania, northeastern West Virginia, central and northern Virginia and the District of Columbia.

—Albemarle: southern Virginia and central and eastern North Carolina and the southeastern fringe of South Carolina.

—Carolina: western North Carolina, central and southern South Carolina and Eastern Georgia.

Biscayne: southern Georgia and Florida.

—Allegheny: western Pennsylvania, northern West Virginia and eastern Ohio.

—Mackinac: incorporating the areas bordering the Great Lakes.

—Erie: western Ohio, eastern Indiana and northern Kentucky.

—Appalachia: southeastern Ohio, central and southern West Virginia, eastern Kentucky, northeastern Tennessee and northwestern North Carolina.

—Cumberland: southern Kentucky, central Tennessee, northeastern Alabama and northwestern Georgia.

—Piedmont: central Georgia and northwestern South Carolina.

—Talladega: Alabama and eastern Mississippi.

Record U.S. crops still too short

WASHINGTON (AP) — New reports of record crops which are still not big enough and possibly the highest rise in food prices in history indicate Americans are still paying for a grain shortage brought on by last year's huge sales to Russia.

Wheat futures prices shot over the $4-a-bushel mark to all-time highs last week, while a loaf of bread on the grocery shelf went up 3 or 4 cents and beef was virtually unobtainable in some areas.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture announced domestic grain crops will be lower than originally estimated and international grain authorities predicted continued worldwide shortages and record prices.

But the biggest bombshell of the week was the statement by the Agriculture Department that food prices may rise as much as 18 to 22 per cent this year over last. The biggest jump on record was 21.3 per cent in 1947.

The department had announced it expected Americans to spend about $135 billion on food this year, compared to $125 billion last year.

But a 20 per cent increase would take it closer to $150 billion.

In rounded numbers this translates to $125 more spent on food this year by every man, woman and child in the United States or $500 for the average family of four.

The government acknowledges that at least 2 per cent, or half a billion dollars, of the increase is directly attributable to the scarcity caused by a sudden boom in export of U.S. food.

Non-government estimators place the figure considerably higher. They assert almost the entire explosion in food prices can be traced in some way or other to the grain shortage.

The lack of wheat, other grains and soybeans has been blamed for higher prices in primary products such as flour, bread, corn for the dinner table and cereal for the breakfast table.

The scarcity of grain also has driven up the price of commodities dependent

5 fatalities on ground; 1 survives

LA CORUNA, Spain (AP) — A Spanish Aviaco airlines jetliner carrying 79 passengers and a crew of six crashed today in a residential area near the fog-bound airport here.

Aviaco officials expressed fear all aboard may have been killed but airport officials said at least one man survived.

The twin-engine Caravelle flight from Madrid plowed into homes in the residential area of Montrove after three unsuccessful attempts to land at Alvedro Airport at this port city 320 miles northwest of Madrid, officials reported.

The Europa Press, a Spanish news agency, said five persons were killed on the ground when the plane crashed into the homes.

Officials said the plane, a medium-distance French-built craft, apparently burst into flames while it was still in the air.

The plane took off from Madrid at 6:50 a.m. local time, and was to land at La Coruna at 9:10.

The airport was under low visibility because of the fog and the plane made repeated attempts to land, officials said.

Most of the passengers were Spaniards, many from Madrid, headed for summer holiday resorts near La Coruna, reports said.

Today's crash was the fourth major air disaster in Western Europe this year and the second involving Spanish airlines.

On March 5, two Spanish jets collided over western France, killing 69 persons in an Iberia Airlines DC9. The other jet, a Spantax Coronado 990, landed safely with 108 persons on board unhurt.

On July 11, a Brazilian Varig Airlines Boeing 707 jet crashed near Paris' Orly Airport, killing 122 of the 134 persons on board.

A British chartered jet crashed in Switzerland on April 10, killing 106 persons.

Brown proposes spending limit

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Secretary of State Ted W. Brown said today candidates for governor should be allowed to spend no more than $750,000 campaigning in 1974.

"The cost of getting elected to public office has gotten out of hand," Brown said in a statement. "Unless definite limits are established, no one but the very rich will be able to afford to campaign."

on feed grains and other feedstuffs, including meat of all kinds, milk, butter, cheese and eggs.

As people turn away from meat because it is unavailable or too expensive, the increased demand drives up the price of the meat substitutes.

Since the demands of World War II died out in the late 1940s, the United States has produced more food than it could eat, sell or even give away, depressing prices and building up huge stores of grain.

That picture gradually has been changing as the rest of the world sought more and better food and found the money to buy it.

What had been a slow trend became a runaway boom last summer when the Soviet Union bought 440 million bushels of U.S. wheat, 275 million bushels of corn and 40 million bushels of soybeans.

In addition to the Soviet crop failures which necessitated the purchases, (Please turn to page 14)

Ruling awaited on beef prices

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Producers, packers and consumers awaited a federal judge's decision today on whether the ceiling on beef prices should be lifted immediately.

U.S. District Court Judge Morell Sharp in Seattle, Wash., promised to rule today on a suit brought by the Western States Meat Packers Association.

There were fresh signs that the beef shortage is growing. Ceilings on the prices of all foods except beef were lifted last month as the first stage of Phase 4 which went into full effect today. Beef prices remain frozen until Sept. 12, and cattlemen have been withholding livestock, hoping for higher prices later.

Officials at the Army's Ft. Ord training base near Monterey, Calif., said no beef would be sold at the commissary after today because of the shortage.

"Our suppliers just cannot supply us with the amount of beef we need," said Col. J. E. Skaggs, an operations official at the base.

Navy commissaries in San Diego ran out of beef Friday; rationing was reported at other California bases; and Norm Maffit, a spokesman for the meat packers association, said: "The Los Angeles supply (of beef) will be zero this week."

The situation was the same elsewhere. The commissioners in Travis County, Tex., are considering requests for price hikes from the man who supplies meat for the jail and juvenile detention facility in the county.

Luther Nuncio, the supplier, said he is losing $40 to $50 for every steer he supplies, even though he buys the animals from feedlots and slaughters them himself. He said he needs immediate increases of up to 50 cents a pound on some items sold to the county.

The meat packers in Seattle asked the judge to issue a temporary restraining order circumventing the federal beef price ceiling.

In the suit, the packers said the number of cattle slaughtered in the United States dropped from 605,000 during the week of June 14 to 338,000 last week. They said 12 packers have closed in California, seven each in Idaho and Oregon and one each in Montana and Texas.

A similar suit is pending in Philadelphia, where a local meat dealer filed a class action on behalf of the nation's retailers asking the U.S. District Court to declare the freeze unconstitutional.

Labron K. Shulman, attorney for Salzburg's Meats, Inc., argued the freeze is "repugnant to the Constitution pertaining to regulations of the food industry because it violates equal protection of the laws."

Phase 4 in effect

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation is now under Phase 4 wage-price regulations, which took effect today.

Under the new rules imposed by President Nixon, prices set by small and medium sized businesses may be increased to reflect cost increases since the last quarter of 1972.

However larger firms, the 1,700 companies with business of $100 million a year, will have to give 30 days notice of any price hikes.

Exempt from the new regulations will be businesses with 60 employees or less, as will the lumber industry and public service industries.

Gasoline and petroleum products will remain frozen until Aug. 19, and beef prices will be frozen until Sept. 12.

Special rules will apply to the insurance and health industries.

The 5.5 per cent wage increase guideline is to continue from Phase 3.

Commerce Secretary Frederick B. Dent says Phase 4 will probably be ended this year, but no firm date for ending it has been set.

The administration has not made predictions as to the results of the new program and no target for the rate of inflation by the end of the year has been set.

The goal of Phase 4, officials said, is to permit inevitable price increases to take place gradually, rather than suddenly, and to limit increases to cost increases and not allow profit hikes.

Officials hope Phase 4 will be the last attempt to control the nation's economy. Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz has said he doesn't expect to announce Phase 5.

Shultz said he believes either Phase 4 will be the last such program or he won't be the secretary if Phase 5 is needed.

Food prices were partially unfrozen in July and some government officials have shown concern over the price increases since then.

Pork and eggs have been two of the fastest rising items, and officials say they also fear a jump in the cost of bread.

"We expected an increase . . . but food prices clearly have gone up higher than we expected," said Kenneth Fedor, director of the Office of Food Price Monitoring in the Cost of Living Council.

See no end to freeze

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The president of the Greater Cincinnati Gasoline Dealers Association predicts "massive weekend shutdowns" of service stations because of the continuing gas price freeze.

Mike Kunnen, an independent dealer, said Saturday night the shutdowns will occur later this month because of the continuing price freeze on gasoline and beef.

The Cost of Living Council earlier announced the price freeze ends at midnight tonight on everything but beef and petroleum products.

The petroleum price freeze ends Aug. 19. But dealers must cut their profit margins back to the level of Jan. 10 but not less than seven cents a gallon.

"If they try to roll that price margin back to seven cents," said Kunnen, "there will be a massive protest."

"And it will be on a national basis." He said most service station dealers must gross nine cents a gallon on gasoline to break even.

"There will be a massive weekend shutdown of gas stations some time in August," Kunnen said.

His organization includes dealers in southwest Ohio and northern Kentucky.

Orlett vote probe slated

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A hearing is to begin Tuesday by a joint Ohio House and Senate Legislative Ethics Committee into charges that Rep. Edward Orlett, D-34 Dayton voted while he was not on the House floor.

The committee is to hear testimony from 10 witnesses, including Orlett and Rep. Michael Oxley, R-82 Findlay who brought the charges against the state representative.

Representatives vote with an electronics system based at each members' desk.

Oxley contends that Orlett was not on the floor during roll call votes July 10 when his votes were recorded.

Orlett says that he was ill much of the day and spent most of his time in the men's room. Orlett said he was on the floor only to answer roll calls.

Casting votes improperly is a violation of House rules.

Paving is planned by area road crews

Paving and resurfacing of several roads tops the weekly work schedule for area highway, road and street crews.

Van Camp Construction Co. will be paving Ohio 729 between U.S. 35 and Milledgeville, and will be covering some concrete portions of U.S. 35 with asphalt.

County crews will pave Worthington Road and Robinson Road, according to Fayette County Engineer Charles P. Wagner. They will also resurface some roads in Wayne Township, and do spray-patching, weed-mowing and culvert work as weather and time allow.

Gene Fitzpatrick, county superintendent for the Ohio Department of Highways, said his men will be doing berm work along U.S. 35-E and on Ohio 729 south of Milledgeville.

If it doesn't rain, state highway workers will also install new drains along the newest segments off Ohio 753-S. State crews will be operating six mowers, including the windrower mower on Ohio 743. Trash crews will also be active, and there are plans to clean along curbs on I-71 access ramps where grass has grown.

Grass on downtown sidewalks will be removed this week by city street workers, according to Bill Duncan, acting city street superintendent.

They'll also be clearing alleys and, if the weather allows, painting and patching.

Trucker dies on mountain

BASTIAN, Va. (AP)—An Ohio man was killed near here Sunday when the brakes of his tractor-trailer overheated, causing the vehicle to run off a mountain road, police said.

State police identified the man as Charles A. Gleason, 37, of Asthabula.

After the truck's brakes overheated, the transmission fell out and the trailer struck a tree, police said.

The brake castings the truck was hauling tumbled off the trailer and the rig overturned, pinning Gleason in the vehicle for about an hour.

The flying cargo also damaged three parked vehicles and crashed through the window of a nearby house.

No other injuries were reported.

Hugh Patton and Robert Lee, of Fayette Supply Co., are seeking a variance to allow establishment of an assembly operational facility at 310 W. Oak St.

TV service now available in Memorial Hospital

The Fayette Memorial Hospital Auxiliary today added the rental service of television sets to the several services they already have undertaken in the hospital, according to Robert L. Kunz, administrator.

The innovative system, called "SteriVision", is a unique, personalized approach to hospital patient TV entertainment which is being adopted by a growing number of the nation's leading hospitals.

Transistorized TV receivers with five-inch screens are now available on a rental basis to the patients. The receiver is attached to a versatile gravity-free, spring balanced arm which enables the patient to view television from virtually any position, according to his physical condition.

A major break-through in the ecology of patient environment within the hospital is the "silent" feature of the sets. Patients can use disposable, sterile earpieces to hear the audio portion of the programs, thus eliminating conflicts with neighboring patients who wish to sleep or rest, or who prefer to watch a different channel.

Functioning through a single coaxial cable installed within the walls of the hospital, the TV sets have no dangling wires or cords and operate on extremely low-voltage DC power, thus virtually eliminating the hazards of accidents and electrical shock. Twenty SteriVision sets use as little electrical power as one conventional household set. When viewed at a normal reading distance, the five-inch screen is equal in size and in clarity to large-screen

Califonia group wins contest

MARION, Ohio (AP) — "The Kingsman" of Orange, Calif., defending champions, held on to their lead and marched to victory in the U.S. Open Drum and Bugle Corps finals competition Sunday.

The 108 boys and girls, averaging 15-years-old, received an 80.30 rating and $3,000 for its efforts.

In second place was the De La Salle Oaklands of Toronto, Ont., Canada with 78.25 points.

The Black Knights of Belleville, Ill., came in third, while the Kilties of Racine, Wis., placed fourth and the Purple Lancers of Auburn, N.Y., took the fifth place honors.

sets that must be viewed from across the room. These sets have been modified so that they will function only with the type of wiring that has been installed in the hospital.

The profit from the rental program, to be handled by the Fayette County Memorial Hospital Women's Auxiliary, will be returned to the hospital in the form of additional needed equipment or improvements, according to Ralph Child, Auxiliary president. It is the policy that payment of the rental for the TV sets must be made in advance. The rental cost is $1.75 per day plus tax. If friends of patients wish to rent TV's for patients, gift certificates are available in the hospital gift shop.

Amtrak making progress

The Amtrak effort to revitalize rail passenger service is rolling, but by no means at top speed. There is reason to think it could get up a full head of steam if only the railroads which run the trains under contract to the quasi-public corporation would do their part.

Enough progress has been made to give the lie to the railroads' claim over the years that Americans are no longer interested in riding on trains. About 15 million passengers were carried in the year Amtrak was established, 1971. By last year the figure had risen to 16.4 million, and the 1973 total is expected to exceed 18 million.

Though trains still account for only a small fraction of the people-transportation business, this is a significant rate of increase.

It does not follow that Amtrak has yet reached the break-even point, or come anywhere near it. Losses are still at high levels, making necessary a continued government subsidy. That lends support to the railroads' other persistent contention, that intercity passenger trains simply are not going to operate in the black.

There is still hope that this happy state of affairs could be achieved, though, if service were good enough to attract passengers in great numbers. At present, this is decidedly not the case.

The situation is cogently summed up in this paragraph from a New York Times report: "In many cases, Amtrak executives claim, the railroads are casual about meeting schedules, carry human cargo begrudgingly, and stick to the letter of their contracts so tightly that many efforts to innovate and upgrade service are thwarted. On-time performance for all 13 lines has grown progressively worse."

A major contributing factor is the present rule whereby the railroads get the same fee regardless of the quality of service they offer. Amtrak seeks to have this changed, so that there would be incentive payments for exceptional service and penalties for sub-standard service. This sensible plan would do much to build up a better head of steam in the task of restoring rail passenger service as a vigorous part of our transportation system.

THESE DAYS . . . by John Chamberlain

Questions for a blue-ribbon panel

When Sen. Edward Kennedy proposed that a panel of scientists be set up to advise Congress on the probable social effects of the exploitation of new inventions, discoveries and technological change, I could see only a negativist result.

In our present Naderized atmosphere the scientists recommended for the Kennedy committee would be long on delay. A new penicillin would take a decade to reach the market; a new wrinkle in energy adaptation would be talked into next-to-permanent postponement. Meanwhile other countries were getting the jump on us all over the place.

Arnold Saltzman, head of the Seagrave Corp., who has been mentioned as possible Democratic contestant for Jacob Javits' senatorial seat, has a better idea for an advisory committee. His suggestion is that the U.S. Senate, which certainly contains its percentage of economic illiterates who need counseling, set up a blue-ribbon committee of savvy individuals (presumably the group would include industrialists, bankers and think-tank personnel as well as economists) to anticipate the probable terminal effects of current policies.

The value of Mr. Saltzman's idea would depend, of course, on the political disinterestedness of the blue-ribbon panelists. We would need a half-dozen Bernard Baruchs, supplemented by a few Herman Kahns, to carry out an objective job.

MR. SALTZMAN has his own list of the problems that a good committee might have helped us to solve in the immediate past. Let me present some of his questions in guest-column fashion:

1. Was it unforeseen that the rate and duration of our inflationary trend were increasingly dangerous to our economic security, both at home and abroad?
2. Was it unknown that the war in Vietnam was the only protracted military involvement by the U.S. without economic controls since the Civil War — and when controls were brought in, but at a late date, they were totally inadequate?
3. Was it not clear that our unfavorable balance of payments year after year threatened the world's two monetary bedrock foundations, the gold standard and the American dollar?
4. Was it not observed that we were using energy year after year at a rate faster than we were replacing it while at the same time losing economic sway over large foreign production? Was it not equally clear that we have at home...billions of tons of high grade coal, and enormously wasteful standards of usage, which, adequately controlled, could erase our energy shortage?
5. Is it a mystery that in a world fearfully short of grain and soybeans that first we should protect our own needs) and, second, that we should be adequately compensated for our surpluses?

6. How long have we known that our transportation systems were broken down and could be saved only by regional accommodation?
7. HOW LONG should we continue to use interest rates as the primary mechanism to turn on or off what needs to be created or abated — and at what cost and to whom?
8. What kind of justification is there in economics or morality is there in fostering unemployment as a device to halt inflation?
9. How many more years do we ignore the wastage of our rural productive areas and the blight of our cities?
10. How long do we have to keep alternating between crisis and complacency, while being profligate of our resources at both ends of the economic spectrum? Long enough until it is too late to reverse the process taking us down from the foremost to an "also ran" among the world's industrial powers?

Mr. Saltzman's list is surely comprehensive. I am not as trustful as he is that a disinterested committee of experts can be found to offer the senators non-partisan answers to questions that involve the passions of interest-groups, nor do I have his hopes that the Senate, as presently constituted, would have the brains to accept good advice.

But something has to be done to reverse a lot of contemporary trends or its is going to be lights out for America as we have known it.

WASHINGTON CALLING . . . by Marquis Childs

Foreign relations must go on

WASHINGTON — As one appalling scandal after another sees the light of day, an indisputable fact of life is paramount. The President of the United States is still the President of the United States, and short of some unforeseen accident is likely to remain so for three more years.

He is responsible for the conduct of foreign policy and this, above all else, points up the peril of the present moment. It would be convenient to say to the world, "Look, sorry but we're having a family fight over here, so just hold up everything for a few months."

Given America's power and the responsibility going with it, that is not possible.

The heads of state who have been here this summer and those still to come want to believe President Nixon's authority has not been seriously eroded. Pressed by eager reporters, they are unwilling to say it is a handicap to negotiate with a crippled executive.

AS THE VISIT of Japan's Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka made plain, events will not stand still until we resolve the scandalousness summarized in the shorthand of Watergate. Tanaka pointed out to his hosts that Japan is dependent for 90 per cent of soybean imports, a vital commodity, from the United States.

But putting an embargo on exports of soybeans the Administration dealt still another Nixon shock to a nation second only to Canada as a trading partner.

The Tanaka government gets high marks for a determined effort to correct the trade imbalance. At a faster rate than had been expected, within the current year, the position of the United States will have been greatly improved.

Japanese laws have been altered to allow increased American investment in Japanese industry. At the same time the Japanese are using part of their great involuntary hoard of dollars to buy properties in Hawaii and California.

While this has caused some resentment, it is just what America's multinational firms have been doing all around the world.

LIKE SIAMESE TWINS, as the issue of Japanese trade illustrates, foreign and domestic policy cannot be severed. The Administration is under heavy pressure to put up tariff barriers against, in the propaganda of the trade union movement, low-cost foreign competition.

To yield to that pressure, which is certain to grow, would be a body blow not only to Japan but to America's other trading partners, with the likelihood of a disastrous trade war as other nations follow suit.

Another recent visitor, the Shah of Iran, wants to sign more flow-through oil agreements with American companies, insuring an increased energy resource to the benefit of both countries. This has Administration blessing.

The agreements signed by President Nixon and Communist Party Secretary Leonid Brezhnev in June turn on trade. If the Soviet Union is denied the same status that America's other trading partners have, with the success of a powerful bloc in Congress, Brezhnev will be in a lonely and perhaps even an isolated position in the Moscow power apparatus.

ALL THIS is merely to say that, short of a total retreat, the conduct of policy cannot be chopped off at the water's edge. The concern over Watergate and the authority of the executive is global. No one is more acutely aware of this as he plans his coming trip to Peking than is Henry A. Kissinger, the President's adviser on national security.

Both symbol of continuity and stability with the United States and close liaison with Premier Chou En-lai, Kissinger has postponed his visit until after Aug. 15 when the bombing of Cambodia will stop. He will sit down again with Chou for the kind of session marking each of his previous visits.

These two men, so dissimilar in background, will cover as they have before every aspect of world policy and, one may be sure, the realities of Washington in the Watergate era.

It was a reflection of the President's conspiratorial temperament that he dragged into his toast to Tanaka at the state dinner a slur on those who were "dealing with the murky, small, unimportant vicious little things." This was hardly the way to rebuild confidence and trust across the chasm between the Capitol and the White House.

Congress established the Federal Reserve System on December 23, 1913.

Hal Boyle . . . Record business no breeze

NEW YORK (AP) — Larry Uttal flopped in doughnuts. He flopped in the retail clothing field. He flopped as a songwriter. He flopped a couple of times as a music publisher.

But now, at 51, Larry Uttal has made a fortune as one of America's top record executives.

"You learn more from your failures than you do from success," said Uttal, the bearded, unconventional president of Bell Records, one of the top companies in the business. Recently his firm had the No. 1, No. 2 and No. 3 top hit singles on the sales charts, a feat unprecedented in the industry.

His firm over a two-year period has become a leading producer in Great Britain and turned out 20 gold records, each of which has sold more than a million discs.

"But you can lose money, even on a hit record, if you spend too much for the talent or promotion," said Uttal. "The things that count in this business are continuity and followup."

"You don't have time to enjoy the luxury of a hit record. It may gross $400,000 for the manufacturer, but he may net only five per cent of that. Its life as a heavy seller usually lasts only about six weeks. At the end of from three to six months it is dead — and there is nothing deader than a dead hit record. If you aren't ready then to follow it up with another hit, you'll probably be dead soon, too."

Part of Uttal's success is attributed to his skill in handling artists and discovering new talent.

The Bell stable includes such stars as the Partridge Family, the Fifth Dimension, David Cassidy, Dawn, Edison Lighthouse, Vickie Lawrence, a featured performer on the Carol Burnett television show, and young Gary Glitter, who has been hailed as "The Elvis Presley of Great Britain." Bell also turned out the original cast album of the musical "Godspell," which won the industry's Grammy Award.

Larry, who studied statistics in college, became a captain in the medical corps during World War II. He said he turned to pop music chiefly to escape the ordeal of "12 hateful years of playing classical music" as a child.

He learned from his two children to appreciate rock music, of which he is now an expert judge.

Dear Abby:

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Phil and I were married for two years, and I thought we had a great marriage. He was 23 and I was 25.

Then Phil went back to college full time while I worked and paid the bills. (I'm a surgical nurse.) It was working out fine until Phil became more than casually involved with a female classmate, and in a sequence of events they were both kicked out of school. (He had stolen a test and they were both caught in possession of it.)

Phil then transferred to another school. The girl also transferred with him. By the way, she's 21, divorced, and has a child.

I demanded a showdown and Phil said he "loved" us both and couldn't decide between her or me.

My pride was hurt, so I locked him out, and now, of course, he is seeing her.

I still love him and regret locking him out. I don't want to lose him, but I couldn't take his running from her to me.

Please tell me how to get him back.

SORRY
DEAR SORRY: You could swallow what's left of your pride and ask Phil to reconsider, but after locking him out, I'd say you blew it.

DEAR ABBY: I am a working girl, 19, and I live at home. I have several younger brothers and sisters, and it is really sad to find that someone in your own family steals. That is my problem, and I don't know which one it is.

I have hidden my purse in my bowling bag, underneath my clothes in drawers, and even far back in my closet, but someone always finds it and helps themselves to some money. I have missed $5, 10s, and even $20 bills. (They never take it all.)

How can I find out who is guilty?

DISGUSTED
DEAR DISGUSTED: I know of no "traps" you can set, although I'm sure there are many. Why don't you put a lock on a drawer (or closet) and wear the key around your neck on a chain?

DEAR ABBY: I get so riled up when I read those pathetic letters signed, "Neglected Mother," or "Forgotten Father." They are from old folks who are not wanted by their children. Abby, I wonder if they have ever stopped to ask themselves why?

One day, many years ago, I came home from work and found my four children watching TV. When I poked my head into the room, they didn't even say hello. I was hurt and angry. Then I said to myself: "You fool! If you can't make yourself more interesting than that damned TV set, it's your own fault."

I admit, I used a bit of bribery in the form of peppermint candy and a few minor toys, but within a few days when I entered the house, there were hoots and hollers: "Daddy's home!"

Old people should consider that their loneliness could be caused by themselves. Many are excused for being difficult because of their age. Why? No one has a right to be difficult whether he be young or old. Old age doesn't give one the license to complain all the time (we all have troubles), to talk the time and reminisce too much (other people like to talk about themselves, too), or to expect constant attention.

Old people should make an effort to be good company. They should also have a hobby, so they can enjoy being alone.

I am 60 years of age, and if I grow old and nobody comes to see me, I hope I am wise enough to realize it's 99 per cent my own fault.

CHARLIE IN ROME
DEAR CHARLIE: Loneliness for you? I'll bet against it.

CONFIDENTIAL TO WORKING GIRL IN OMAHA: If you are one of the "working girls" heaven is supposed to protect, heaven help the poor fellow for whom you are working.

MR. AND MRS. ASA CHESTER

Miss Brown, Mr. Chester are united in marriage

Miss Mary Linda Brown and Asa Miles Chester exchanged marriage vows July 21 in St. Patrick's Catholic Church in London.

Msgr. Francis J. Schwendeman performed the ceremony uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Brown of London, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Miles Chester of Jeffersonville.

Mrs. Dee Latto, organist, presented a half-hour of pre-nuptial music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a gown of dotted Swiss with heart-shaped lace around the neckline. The same lace edged the deep cuffs of dotted Swiss of illusion which were capped by dotted Swiss and the empire waistline were accented with matching lace. Her only jewelry was a strand of pearls.

A cap of lace flowers enhanced with miniature pearls held her elbow length veil. She carried a nosegay of white daisies and yellow, pink and white carnations with broad leaved greenery and baby's breath.

Miss Kathy Bown was her sister's only attendant. She wore an empire gown of violet blue lawn embossed with white cotton rectangles. The deep neckline was edged with a white bertha collar and white cuffs held short puffed sleeves. Tatting trimmed the collar and cuffs and the waistline was outlined by bands of the violet blue lawn. She carried a nosegay styled as the bride's with blue accents.

Chad Chester of Sweetwater, Tenn., was best man for his cousin. Seating the wedding guests were Tarkio Chester, brother of the groom, and the bride's brothers, A-C Joseph Bown and James Brown.

Mrs. Brown wore a streetlength dress with navy skirt and white bodice in shirtdress styling for her daughter's wedding. Her accessories were navy and her corsage of white daisies.

The groom's mother wore a dress of sunshine yellow with rounded turnback collar and A-line skirt. Her accessories were white and she wore a white daisy corsage.

Hostesses at the Coover Club House at a reception honoring the couple following the wedding were Jerry Harding and Midge DeWitt. Guests were served cake, a three-tiered cake decorated by frosting flowers in summer garden shades. Yellow candles in silver holders were surrounded by summer flowers and an arrangement of variegated flowers graced the table. Miss Vicki Brown, the bride's sister, was at the guest registry.

The couple is residing at 1344 Presidential Dr., Columbus, following a wedding trip to Dearborn, Mich.

Mrs. Chester, a graduate of London High School, attended Ohio Wesleyan University, and is employed by Columbus National Life Insurance.

Her husband, a graduate of Miami Trace High School, is a senior at Ohio State University, majoring in agricultural economics. He is employed by the State of Ohio as a computer operator.

A color scheme of orange, green and gold was carried out in the table appointments. Beautiful floral arrangements in antique pottery created attractive centerpieces and floral plaques as favors marked each cover.

The meeting following was conducted by Mrs. William Cook who gave as her thought for the day the poem "I Wonder". After the Aid's prayer of thanksgiving a most impressive devotional service was given by Mrs. Barger, who read from the Book of Psalms and an inspirational poem and prayer.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Major league baseball on TV is old hat today. But it all started in Brooklyn 34 years ago, with the Hon. Red Barber presiding over blurry, black-and-white history.

As one newspaper put it then, "Major league baseball made its television debut as the Dodgers and Reds battled through two games at Ebbets Field before two prying electric 'eyes' of station WXB." The station belonged to NBC, which has brought Barber out of retirement to be guest commentator for tonight's nationally televised baseball show, putting Cincinnati against Pittsburgh.

Things are a bit different now. Six color cameras will cover the game, slow-motion replays will abound and the price of a 60-second commercial will exceed an NBC vice president's salary for all of 1939.

The Old Redhead recalls his TV debut well, partly because he didn't have a TV monitor to help him describe the pictures a few hundred viewers were seeing.

"I was supposed to have a headset which would connect me with the director, Burke Crotty, outside in a truck," said the 65-year-old dean of American sportscasters.

"He was supposed to tell me from time to time what pictures he was getting so I could make some reference to it. Well, that communication broke down.

"Now, when a camera came on, a red light on the camera would go on. So I tried to look at the two cameras to see which one had the red light going. I tried to see approximately where the camera was pointing."

Barber began in 1930 as a 35-cent-an-hour announcer and sportscaster for the campus radio station at the University of Florida, where he was working his way through school.

It led to a $25-a-week job in 1934 as a staff announcer at a Cincinnati radio station, where he covered Reds games five years.

Then came 15 years—and his greatest fame—as the voice of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

He hung it up in 1966 after 13 years of broadcasting New York Yankees games and now lives in Tallahassee, Fla., where he writes a weekly newspaper sports column and a monthly essay for Sports Digest.

See chronic tight supply in nation's steel industry

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Steel companies and their customers are becoming convinced that the steel industry has entered an era of chronic tight supply and agree that the problem is expected to persist, Industry Week magazine said today.

"Despite the tight supply outlook, they do not expect any immediate crisis," it said. "Most steel users are not getting all of the steel they want. But as a sales executive for one company points out: 'Most of our customers are running 30 per cent or so ahead of last year and they could run 50 per cent ahead if they could get the steel.'"

The magazine said the companies and customers fear that the real crisis will come a few years from now "when the growth in demand actually will not have been matched by installation of new capacity."

Industry Week said the amount of steel available from domestic and foreign mills is expected to shrink during the rest of this year compared with the first six months of the year.

"In the first half, U.S. mills shipped a record 56.5 million net tons, using up three million to four million net tons of steel mill inventories," it added. "Shipment records were set in both the first and second quarters.

"Now the industry is being troubled by breakdowns in equipment that has run at full capacity for a long period and by a growing difficulty in obtaining some raw materials, such as fuel oil, coke and lime. In addition, vacations of steelmakers at some plants have hampered output."

Industry Week estimated last week's raw steel production at 2,837,000 net tons compared with the preceding week's 2,810,000 tons.

Fluoridation battle set in state

CLINT SWIFT
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Fluoridation—the controversial system of fighting tooth decay with chemicals in drinking water—has made friendly enemies of Cincinnati and Ohio's Environmental Protection Agency.

The two are adversaries in a legal test of a 1969 state law requiring Ohio cities and towns to add fluoride to their public water supplies.

"Several cities are in the same boat," said Barb Kaufman, an EPA spokesman. "The case should be decisive for Dayton, Canton and about 60 smaller communities that have not yet begun to fluoridate as the law requires."

A Hamilton County Common Pleas Court judge declared the law unconstitutional in 1971. He held it deprived home owners already fluoridating their water privately of a say on the issue.

Judge William R. Matthews' order prohibited the City of Cincinnati from complying with the law.

In March, 1972, a Cincinnati lawyer complained to the EPA, which is charged with enforcing the statute. The EPA ordered a hearing and its examiner recommended the agency require Cincinnati to begin fluoridation.

Cincinnati filed an objection to the examiner's recommendation on July 27, 1973.

"If the recommendation is carried out, the executive branch of the state government will be forcing Cincinnati to violate an order of the judicial branch," said Philip Ollinger, an assistant corporation counsel for Cincinnati.

He said Cincinnati already has tanks and pumps to measure out a gallon of hydrofluorsilicic acid for each million gallons of water in the public supply system.

The law—Section 6111.13 of Chapter 61 of the Ohio Code—requires com-

Urbana church roof collapses

URBANA, Ohio (AP) — Authorities here say the collapse of the roof of the Jerusalem Baptist Church Sunday resulted in no injuries.

He said he was just opening the door of the church when the roof of the 110-year-old structure caved in. Firemen later removed the remaining portions of the building.

Lima blaze investigation continues

LIMA, Ohio (AP) — Fire officials today were continuing an investigation into the cause of a fire at a lumber store-home in which five persons died early Saturday.

Charles Kissel, chief of the Bath Township Fire Department in Northeastern Allen County, said neither the cause of the blaze nor a damage estimate was available.

The fire claimed the life of a mother and her six-month-old son, and three other children.

The blaze was reported at 3:09 a.m. Saturday. Witnesses said flames shot as high as 100 feet into the sky and could be seen for miles. Firefighters said they heard exploding paint and plastics inside the lumber store.

Firemen brought the fire under control after a battle that lasted for 1½ hours.

The bodies of three of the victims were found on the lower level of the structure. Fire officials speculate that they fell through the upper floor.

Eugene Fultz, 45, the owner of the lumber store, escaped the flames by crashing through a picture window to safety. He was treated for cuts and bruises.

Fultz's mother suffered severe smoke inhalation and was admitted to a local hospital.

Two of Fultz's teenage children were treated and released at the hospital.

See gasoline shutdowns

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — R. S. Ryan, a senior vice president of Columbia Gas of Ohio, has predicted that the company's freeze on new sales of natural gas will continue.

Ryan said it is unlikely that the sales restrictions the gas company has imposed on new customers will be lifted in the near future.

Columbia Gas restricted natural gas supplies to large volume industrial users last winter. The restrictions were lifted earlier than anticipated when the winter proved to be unusually warm. However, the company continued to limit new sales.

Ryan said company projections

indicate gas will be available for residential and commercial customers this winter.

The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio, in the meantime, was to begin hearings today on the priorities of fuel allocation in the event of natural gas shortages.

Priorities set in the past range from top ranking residential heating to large volume industry at the lowest rating. The hearings will permit companies to argue for or against the proposed priorities.

Prep grid teams launch workouts

Season debuts just over 3 weeks away

By MIKE FLYNN
Record-Herald Sports Editor

It's time again for Fayette County's high school football teams to open their pre-season training camps in earnest this week.

The prospective football candidates reported at both Washington C.H. and Miami Trace high schools today to begin preparations for the 1973 campaigns.

THE GRIDDERS will pull on the practice jerseys and pads this week to open a pre-season practice period of almost three and a half weeks before the 1973 inaugurations Sept. 7.

Conditioning programs have been going on since mid-July and in some cases earlier, all on a voluntary basis. Both the Blue Lions and Panthers have been working out with helmets and shoes since the first of the month, with the emphasis on physical conditioning. Running and weightlifting have occupied the players' time for at least the last two weeks.

In addition to the running, many of the prospective gridders have taken part in summer weightlifting and physical fitness programs at both Fayette County high schools.

When the drills get under way each team must confine the first four days of workouts to conditioning. No contact will be allowed until after the fourth day, as per order by the Ohio High School Association with the advice from the Advisory Committee on Sports Medicine of the Ohio State Medical Association.

Morning and afternoon sessions have been scheduled for the Fayette County gridders this week.

Dressler sees stardom this season

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Bengals running back Doug Dressler says this is the year he emerges from the shadows into stardom. He has a 1,000 reasons why.

"I'm shooting for 1,000 yards. The major brunt of the load will fall on me and my average is good enough to do," said the 230-pound Californian, who sometimes wears a lapel button engraved with "Blitz Me" to practice. "That's to tease the linebackers," said the soft-spoken 25-year-old Dressler, who had his best season last year with 565 yards, although he didn't earn a starting spot until midseason.

His goal is a lofty one, but Dressler has reason to believe anything can happen.

Signed as a free agent in 1970 when he tried out with the Bengals as a tight end, Dressler didn't go out for high school football until his senior year.

"I had no position. The coach just said 'go on in' when it was 30 or 40 to nothing. I remember the first time I played the other team ran a play right over me for a touchdown. I was a kicker after that," he said.

He played college ball at Chico (Calif.) State but didn't attract any attention, he said.

"I didn't give myself much of a chance when I came here. But I had to try it. I couldn't live with a question mark the rest of my life wondering if I could have made it or not."

"I came here during the player's strike in 1970. It gave me three weeks to get even with the other backs, after being a tight end for years," he recalled.

Now heading into his fourth season, he feels confident he's ready for a big season.

Jeff Merchants win tournament

The Jeffersonville Merchants softball team emerged with top honors in the Park and Safe tournament at Germantown over the weekend by posting an unblemished 5-0 record.

Flea Merriman cracked 13 hits for a .650 average and Sid Woodrow had a .777 mark. Pete Robinson batted .583 followed by Jack Merriman (.529) and Randy Merriman (.500). The Jeff team had 52 runs and 83 hits.

Anderson triggers Bengals

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Bengals quarterback Ken Anderson thinks he made his point Saturday night.

"I just wanted to show Cincinnati fans I'm the No. 1 quarterback all the way this year," said the 23-year-old Anderson after leading the Bengals to a 24-0 first half lead with a near-flawless aerial exhibition against the Philadelphia Eagles.

Cincinnati set a preseason scoring record with a 45-21 National Football League exhibition victory over the Eagles.

Anderson hit 11 of 12 passes for 143 yards and two touchdowns to produce Cincinnati's first win after dropping a 14-13 decision to Miami.

"It was just one of those nights when everything went right," said Anderson. "But you have to do that every night. Hopefully we will get that consistency down."

Coach Paul Brown was pleased with Anderson's showing. "He's growing up," he said.

Eagles' Coach Mike McCormack had

At Washington C.H., veteran head coach Maurice Pfeifer will be hoping to better last year's 6-4 production as he enters his ninth consecutive term as the Blue Lion taskmaster.

PFEIFER IS hoping to capitalize on the experience of a large group of seniors blended with that of several juniors.

At Miami Trace, new head coach Fred Zechman will be handling the chores. Zechman, formerly of Youngstown, had been head football coach at Western Reserve High School in Berlin Center and becomes the fourth new head football coach in the South Central Ohio League this autumn.

Both teams will work about a week and a half before plunging into pre-season interscholastic scrimmage action. Each team is allowed three scrimmages starting on Aug. 25 and going through Sept. 1.

Season openers are scheduled Sept. 7 when Washington C.H. entertains Columbus Bishop Ready and Miami Trace hosts Springfield Northeastern.

Mark Donohue winner of Buckeye Can-Am

LEXINGTON, Ohio (AP) — A difference of ten seconds was worth $15,000 to Mark Donohue Sunday as he sneaked past George Follmer on the back leg of the Mid-Ohio Sports Car Course to win the $84,450 Buckeye Can-Am.

a different view of the outcome. "I thought we looked like a high school team. I was very disappointed," he said.

"The important thing to us is that we found out things that are going to help us," said McCormack, who was facing his ex-coach for the first time.

McCormack must have liked what he saw from second-year quarterback John Reaves, who had a sensational second half. The Eagles No. 1 draft choice of 1972 completed 14 of 29 for 237 yards.

Reaves took over for veteran Roman Gabriel in the second half and immediately triggered life into the offense. His first pass was 45-yard completion to Harold Carmichael that put the Eagles on the Bengals' 11-yard line.

Running back Lee Bougess scored from the seven, his first of two touchdowns.

Reaves added aials of 37 and 22 yards late in the third quarter to set up a three-yard touchdown run by Bougess.

Consistent Shaffer captures club title

Gary Shaffer weathered some pretty heavy pressure from two young challengers to capture the 50th Washington County Club golf championship Sunday afternoon.

It was the second club championship in three years for Shaffer, who is Washington C.H.'s head basketball and head coach golf.

SHAFFER repeated his 1971 title performance by swatting a sizzling six-over-par 150 to top a field of four golfers, including defending champion Rob Herron. Shaffer finished third in last year's championship tournament.

While Shaffer was turning in identical rounds of 75 in the 36-hole medal play, Herron, an Ashland College golfer, finished six strokes off the pace with a 156 total.

On the first 18-hole match, Shaffer turned in a glittering par 36 round and finished with a three-over par 75. In the final 18 holes of play, Shaffer turned in rounds of 38 and 37 for the 150 total.

Herron had scores of 37 and 42 on the first 18 holes to fall four strokes off Shaffer's pace and turned in a 38 and 39 on the last 18 holes.

Bill Junk, a classmate of Herron's at Washington Senior High School and now a student at Ohio Wesleyan University, placed third in this year's club championship. Junk was only one stroke off Herron's pace as he finished with a fine 157 score. Junk had rounds of 43-38-81 and 36-40-76 to land the third place berth.

Jim Hanawalt was the other member of the championship quartet and he turned in a 168 total. Hanawalt had rounds of 39-42-87.

Robert Herron topped a three-player field to capture the 1973 first flight

Murphy wins at motocross

Tim Murphy, of the Honda Sports Center in Washington C.H., was one of seven winners in the motocross races held at the Fruitdale Sportsmen Association's track Saturday.

Murphy placed first in the 250 cc class and Tim Warner, also of Washington C.H., fared well by finishing fourth in the 125cc class.

More than 50 motorcycles participated in the seven AMA-sanctioned classes, according to race manager Dave Hatfield, of Greenfield. A crowd of nearly 700 persons was on hand.

Anderson triggers Bengals

Doug Dressler, who led all rushers with 46 yards, scored the Bengals first two touchdowns. He raced nine yards for one and took a five-yard pass from Anderson to make it 17-0. Horst Muhlmann's 20-yard field goal was sandwiched in between.

A 21-point outburst in the final quarter produced the highest preseason score in history, bettering last year's 34-20 mark also set against the Eagles.

Brown praised rookie running back Charles "Booby" Clark, who tied Charlie Joiner with four receptions. Clark, a 240-pounder, is expected to join Dressler in the Bengal backfield.

Virgil Carter was 4-for-5 for the night with a 33-yard touchdown to rookie Steve Kingman.

Gabriel, who joined the Eagles in a massive trade with the Los Angeles Rams, hit the first seven passes he attempted and missed only one of eight but was successful at moving the team.

Rose says

LA chasing Reds

ST. LOUIS (AP) — "We're the only team in baseball that's in second place and being chased by the leader," the Cincinnati Reds' Pete Rose remarked.

The hot-hitting Rose, the "Charlie Hustle" of the National League, kept his team in that role Sunday with two doubles and as many RBIs. While Rose was running his hitting streak to 14 games, the game's "Big Red Machine" extended its win streak to five with a 7-2 triumph over the St. Louis Cardinals.

The victory, Cincinnati's 33rd in 43 games since July 1, kept the club 1½ games behind the Los Angeles Dodgers, whom it once trailed by 11 games in the NL's West Division.

"I think we can explode right on by," opined Rose, who maintained his league-leading batting average at .345 as the Reds swept a three-game bid.

"The reason I say that is because we've got the right guys swinging the bats right now," he added. "Joe Morgan and I are going to get on base. The secret to our team is the guts of the batting order. If those guys produce, we're hard to beat."

Rose had two hits and Morgan drew two walks as the Reds capped a shellacking of St. Louis pitching with five runs on four hits and three bases on balls in the second inning.

Behind the two was rookie Dan Driessen with a single, walk, two runs and two RBIs.

Tony Perez followed with two singles, a walk and a run driven in, and Johnny Bench made the most of one hit with the other two RBIs.

Bobby Tolan contributed a double and Cesar Geronimo and Ed Crosby walked before Rose fused the big inning with his second two-base hit.

"I think it's all momentum," suggested Rose, who with his team moves into Pittsburgh for a three-game series against the Pirates opening tonight.

"We might lose three in a row to Pittsburgh and L. A. might beat Montreal that many in a row," he added of a series opening on the West Coast, "and then the momentum's the other way."

Cincinnati's record since the All-star break is a sizzling 15-5.

"We've got five games left with Los Angeles in September, and I'm sure those will decide the division race," observed Reds Manager Sparky Anderson.

"I'll say this," Anderson added, "we're going to make it a race. They're first in pitching and in hitting. I'd just like to be in a position where we have to win only two of those five games to finish on top."

Dodgers 2, Phillies 1

The Dodgers came from behind to beat Steve Carlton and the Phillies 2-1. Greg Luzinski's 19th homer accounted for the game's only run until the eighth inning. Then, rookie catcher Joe Ferguson tagged a pinch homer, tying the score for Los Angeles.

In the ninth, the Dodgers pushed across the deciding run on consecutive singles by rookies Tom Paciorek, Steve Yeager and Dave Lopes.

Giants 4, Mets 1

Tito Fuentes knocked in all of San Francisco's runs with a three-run homer and a double, leading the Giants a 4-1 victory over the New York Mets.

Ron Bryant throttled New York on six hits and started the Giants winning rally when he walked with two out in the fifth inning. John Milner misjudged Garry Maddox' fly ball and it fell for a double. Then Fuentes followed with a homer.

Astros 3, Cubs 2

Stumbling Chicago dropped its eighth straight with Jimmy Wynn scoring Houston's winning run in the eighth inning of a 3-2 victory.

Wynn walked in the eighth, raced to third on Cesar Cedeño's single and scored on an infield out.

Say Brazil doesn't need U.S. money

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government study suggests that Brazil, with the fastest-growing economy in Latin America and a foreign-aid program of its own, may no longer need direct U.S. economic assistance.

The report by the General Accounting Office urges Congress to consider cutting off direct aid to Brazil and any other countries whose economies have become self supporting.

No federal agency has ever determined at what point a country becomes prosperous enough to have its American aid cut off, said the report.

The GAO made the findings in its study of U.S. aid-to-education programs in Brazil. The report was distributed here this week.

"The basic goal of U.S. development assistance is to assist recipient countries to develop to a degree that external assistance is no longer required," the report said.

The report said Brazil's booming economy provides a good argument for setting a cutoff point for American aid. Brazil's gross national product has grown at an average rate of 9.9 per cent since 1968, one of the fastest paces in the world.

The country has built up foreign currency reserves totaling $4.2 billion and it has started its own program of foreign aid, making loans and building roads for other South American nations, the report said.

Economic mess: whose fault is it?

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — When historians come to write about this period of American economic history, they will discover a theme more normally found in a mystery story.

Detective-like, they will probe deeply in an effort to explain why prices soared and controls were required, why the dollar plunged, why interest rates soared, why shortages developed, why economic confidence deteriorated.

They will study the public utterances of administration officials, just as a detective interviews the principals, and will get the same answer: Don't blame me.

Speaking last week to a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce and Industry, Commerce Secretary Frederick B. Dent reiterated the administration's position, which more and more appears to be a declaration of innocence: Government "can hardly be blamed for the present supply and demand spiral."

This seemingly has become the official administration position, being almost identical in meaning to the President's statement last month that the cause was "an extraordinary combination of circumstances."

Those circumstances were, as he described them, a decline of domestic food supplies, the booming of the domestic economy at an exceptional pace and a powerful demand for goods and services.

All these factors or consequences might be recognized, of course, not only as subject to government influence through fiscal, monetary and other policies but also as outright responsibilities of the federal government.

That, at least, has been the growing assumption of most administrations since President Hoover, and citizens who heard a resolute new president assume his duties in 1968 aren't likely to believe Nixon turned his back on that trend.

While some of what the administration says might be true, there are many possibilities for investigation that don't fit into the category of "extraordinary combination of circumstances," which don't seem "impersonal, natural."

A desire by the Nixon administration to have a booming, high-employment economy at re-election time could be studied, considering that it resulted in a hiatus in the anti-inflation program begun earlier.

A failure by the administration to foresee the consequences of economic spurring, of its agricultural export program, of its discontinuance of Phase 3 offers possibilities.

Worth studying also is the policy of making agricultural exports a major factor in trade expansion without understanding fully the domestic needs.

Nearsightedness and even blindness at the Agriculture Department might be a factor. It didn't know how much food was being exported, couldn't foresee developing shortages and was forced to raise its 1973 estimate of domestic food price increases from six to 20 per cent within a matter of months.

Certainly to be considered is the failure of the administration to bring fiscal and monetary policy into harmony. While the president was cutting spending, the Federal Reserve continued to fuel demand by permitting an expansion of money.

The bidding:

	South	West	North	East
Pass	1♥	2♣	2♥
2♣	3♦	4♣	5♦
Pass	Pass	5♣	Pass
Pass	Pass	Dble

Opening lead - king of hearts.

This deal occurred in the playoff between my team and the Curt Smith team to determine which of us would represent the United States in the 1973 world championship. My team won the match handily but not before we were badly clawed on this hand.

Maybe I shouldn't have doubled five spades with the West hand, though at the time it seemed the right thing to do. I led the king of hearts, which was ruffed, and later scored the ace of clubs and ace of diamonds, but that was the end of the party. Declarer made five spades doubled for 850 points and I was left holding the bag a sadder, it not wiser, man.

This was a bitter pill to swallow, but matters got much worse when I heard what had happened at the other table. My teammates this time held the North-South cards and the bidding went in this odd fashion:

	South	West	North	East
Pass	1♥	2♣	2♣(!)
Pass	3♣	4♣	4♥
Pass	4♣	Pass	5♥
Dble

Curt Smith, East, was the scoundrel who inserted the two-spade bid that stumped my beleaguered teammates. It is difficult to blame South for doubling five hearts, but declarer, West, wrapped up that contract without any trouble. His only losers were a spade and a trump.

So the upshot of the affair was that the Curt Smith team made five spades doubled at one table with the North-South cards, and also made five hearts doubled at the other table with the East-West cards. The hand cost my team 1,700 points.

Irritated About Insurance

I am really irritated with my doctor. Six weeks ago my gall bladder was removed.

I have been home for more than a month and I can't get my surgeon to fill out my insurance form.

Isn't he obligated to do this before I pay him?

Mr. J.S., III.

No, he is not so obligated. Let us trace the relationship between you and your surgeon and see if we can find the underlying reason for your irritation.

At your first meeting, your doctor examined you, saw the X-rays, and called on his broad experience to determine your need for surgery. He then spent a considerable amount of time in the midst of his busy office hours to answer all your questions and allay the anxiety of you and your family.

After you left his office, he wrote a report to your family doctor indicating his diagnosis and his proposed plans for surgery.

Then he called the hospital and made specific arrangements for your admission to the type of room you chose, and for a date that was mutually agreeable, depending on the urgency of your case.

Special pre-admission forms were sent to for your signature.

On the day you were admitted to the hospital, your surgeon and family physician carefully laid out the preliminary tests that would have to be done before the operation. This was to insure maximum safety.

Thoughtful planning with the anesthesiologist further added to your safety and eventual comfort.

About two hours of time was invested in the highly technical surgical procedure for the removal of your gall bladder.

Your surgeon then dictated a full hospital report of the operation, his findings and any complexities that existed.

For the next week or ten days your surgeon visited you twice a day, dressed your wound, gave comfort and understanding, and left daily instructions for drugs, diet, and special regimens for your individual case.

If an unusual problem arose, he was quickly called, even in the middle of the night if necessary.

You then were discharged from the hospital, having safely recovered from an intricate gall bladder operation.

You were then examined at the doctor's office until the wound was completely healed and you were finally told that you could ease into your normal routines.

Now there is a general feeling of happiness. Your gratitude to your doctor is limitless.

Then your doctor submitted his bill "for services rendered."

You, as many patients do, responded

by sending a blank insurance form as your total responsibility and compensation for the time, the skill, the effort and the energy that your surgeon invested in your destiny.

Now, you impose on him the need to collect his fee from a strange insurance company rather than from you, his patient.

Hundreds of forms pile up in this manner and deprive doctors and their staffs of time that must be devoted to the ongoing practice of medicine and surgery.

Do you still think that you have a right to be irritated?

Guardsmen return from field training

Guardsmen from Co. A., 166th Infantry, local Army National Guard unit, returned home Saturday evening from Camp Grayling, Mich., where they participated in their annual two weeks of field training.

The 153-man company, under the command of Capt. David Harp, acted as an aggressor force during the two-week period, and their efforts were highly commended by officers of the 73rd Brigade.

As an aggressor force the company conducted guerilla and psychological warfare operations against the 4,000 man brigade. The company conducted several all night operations against other battalions and also infiltrated through the "enemy lines" to capture prisoners and gain intelligence information.

A group of observers from the 5th U.S. Army also observed the company's operations.

The company's three rifle platoons conducted Army Training Tests which consisted of a daylight attack, patrolling operations and a nighttime attack, on enemy held positions. All three platoons passed the tests satisfactory.

The mortar section conducted three days of live firing exercises on the Grayling ranges.

Environmental firm polluter?

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Two state agencies have accused one of Ohio's environmental consulting firms of discharging pollutants into Lake Erie and a Wayne County stream, the Dayton Daily News said Sunday.

In a copyrighted story, the newspaper said Environmental Control Corp. of Painesville has been cited by the Department of Natural Resources and the Environmental Protection Agency.

Since 1969, ECC has received at least $776,500 in contracts from the Natural department to study state waterways and other problems, the Daily News said.

The first pollution citation was issued April 23 against Ohio Parks Development Corp. of Mount Eaton, an ECC subsidiary. Wildlife agents of the Department of Natural Resources have charged that the firm allowed a combination of rainwater and garbage to flow from a landfill into a Wayne County stream, according to the newspaper.

On July 19, the EPA charged that an ECC landfill in Ashtabula County was polluting a Lake Erie tributary, according to the Daily News.

The EPA has called the Ashtabula County landfill a public nuisance and is seeking a permanent injunction against the landfill's operation, the newspaper said.

The Dayton newspaper said the Wayne County case has not been heard, but the company has pleaded innocent. Common Pleas Court Judge Joseph Mahoney has taken the Ashtabula County case under advisement.

Jack Webb, chairman of the ECC board of directors, told the newspaper, his firm was charged in the Wayne County case only a few weeks after it took over the operation from another company. He said the Ashtabula County landfill is run by the city of Conneaut and that ECC provides only equipment.

ECC, which opened its first office in Painesville, now has offices in New York City, Washington, D.C. and Bay St. Louis, Miss., the newspaper said.

Over 800 exhibitors participate in show

Intermittent rains this weekend caused a slight reduction in the number of exhibitors at the Central Ohio Gun and Indian Relic Collectors Association show compared with previous months.

Although the show and flea market drew some 200 less exhibitors than the June show, there were still more than 800. Due to the Fayette County Fair, there was no collectors' show in July.

Competition this month was in the area of stone Indian relics. Carrol Michael, of Sabina, placed first with four stone picks and a flint combination ax and hoe. Second was Gary Davis, of Greenfield, who brought a stone adz (a tool for hollowing logs) and a stone chisel.

There will be two more summer shows Sept. 8-9 and Oct. 6-7. These will be followed by shows in November and December, held indoors. The emphasis of the November show will be on coins and antiques while the December show will feature guns and Indian relics.

Minor damage reported

Two drivers were cited in eight weekend traffic mishaps investigated by city police and sheriff's departments. There were no injuries and property damage was mostly minor.

Accidents investigated were:

POLICE

10 p.m. — A car driven by Kathleen L. Teets, 17, Rt. 1, Jeffersonville, backed from a parking space at Bert's Bar and collided with a parked car owned by James O. Lemmings, of 428 Third St., parked on Campbell St.; damage minor.

Final party for woman successful

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP) — The hostess wore rumpled white pajamas and didn't get up to greet her guests. But nobody at Ruth Hoffman's party seemed to mind.

Mrs. Hoffman, 57, held the party for more than 100 family members and friends Saturday in her room at Sequoia Hospital here.

She learned she had terminal bone cancer the day before Mother's Day and began planning the party a short time later.

"I want to see and talk with and touch them all I can," she said as the visitors streamed into her flower-laden room to sign a guest book, hug her and chat.

"We all have to die, and I wanted to have a party for my friends," she said. "I feel wonderful, I'm surrounded by the people I love."

Amid the quiet chatter and laughter, Mrs. Hoffman's face brightened as she held her 5-year-old grandson, Scott Gage, and softly sang, "Rock a bye, baby, in the treetop."

"She is the most amazing woman I ever met," said Jan Gregory, who shared the room with Mrs. Hoffman when she was hospitalized recently for back surgery. "Ruth insisted upon being wheeled up to the surgery section every day just to cheer me."

Mrs. Hoffman said her one concern was that doctors keep her alive until the party. "After that, I don't care. I'll be ready," she said.

Commissioners OK ditch bid

The Fayette County Board of Commissioners Monday accepted the bid of Robert E. Huff, Bloomingburg, for the contract for improvement of the Hartman ditch. Huff's bid, the only one submitted, was $22,020.92. Fayette County Engineer Charles P. Wagner has estimated the cost of the job at $22,039.65.

A contract for a $55,710 addition to the sheriff's office, awarded last month, was signed by commissioner Monday. Lisk Construction Co. will handle the job.

The Commissioners also approved a one-year extension on the lease of the county farm to Donald Denen, and approved the transfer of $595 to the Fayette County Historical Society.

Ohio sailor killed

LAKE ELSINORE, Calif. (AP) — Navy Petty Officer Douglas Robert Bondra, 22, of Brecksville, Ohio, was killed after his motorcycle collided with a car here Saturday, the Highway Patrol said.

Rd., were involved in a minor collision on Staunton-Jasper Road, just south of CCC Highway.

11:45 a.m. — Elmer H. Biedenholz, 71, Chillicothe, was cited for driving left of center following a collision with a car driven by John E. Fulweiler, 63, Cincinnati, at the intersection of Ford Road and U.S. 35; damage moderate.

5:30 p.m. — A semi-rig driven by Kenneth Burkhalter, 28, Kennedy Ala., was heavily damaged when it jackknifed on U.S. 35 at the northbound I-71 entrance ramp.

U. S. food crisis

other failures or disappointing harvests of wheat and protein products like peanuts and peruvian anchovies, created a worldwide food crisis.

Apparently no one in this country anticipated just how much grain the Soviets would buy from U.S. dealers, but the impact was immediate. The price of wheat doubled from July to September.

Slow to react, the Agriculture Department maintained an export subsidy on wheat until September, holding down the price for the Russians and costing U.S. taxpayers $400 million.

Some European countries were reported to be hoarding U.S. grain because the price was so good, while Americans were heading toward $1-a-dozen eggs and $1.40-a-pound bacon.

Although the Soviets haven't bought as much this year, the global strain on U.S. supplies continues. Total exports for the year appear to be going even higher than in 1972.

The Agriculture Department predicts wheat exports for the 1973-74 season to be slightly less than last season, but nearly a billion bushels have been registered for export already. And Commerce Department figures show overseas shipment of corn running 60 per cent ahead of a year ago.

At the same time, the Agriculture Department is falling back on its earlier crop estimates. It now predicts the wheat crop will be 11 per cent greater than last year, with corn up 2 per cent and soybeans 20 per cent. All are records.

In announcing the reduced crop estimates last week, Deputy Asst. Secretary of Agriculture Richard Bell said: "One could safely assume that prices will remain firm."

Under questioning, Bell explained that by "firm" he meant "they'll be strong." He added that strong prices are usually "higher prices."
